Two commissioners from the Alameda Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCo) received 2017 Achievement Awards from the California Association of Local Agency Formation Commissions (CALAFCO) at the statewide group's annual conference in October.

Sblend Sblendorio of Livermore, an Alameda LAFCo commissioner for 11 years, was named this year's Outstanding CALAFCO Member for accomplishments during his two years representing the Coastal Region on the CALAFCO Board.

Commissioner John Marchand, also the Mayor of Livermore, was named Outstanding Commissioner for his leadership over the past year, during which he served as Alameda LAFCo Chair.

Both Sblendorio and Marchand are among Alameda LAFCo's 11 commissioners working to encourage efficient municipal service provision in Alameda County and balance infrastructure needs for sustainable growth with preservation of agricultural and open space lands.
