

Ariane Divetain

Ariane Divetain is Veeva's European director of regulatory strategy. She is based in Paris, France and has a Master's Degree in Human Toxicology & Risk Assessment and Ph.D in Pharmacy. Before joining Veeva in 2019, she worked for L'Oréal in the Research & Development department as a safety assessor and then as a Regulatory and Safety manager in EcoMundo in 2013, a company dedicated to the chemical regulations compliance such as REACH, cosmetics, and biocidal regulations. During these five years, she led regulatory cosmetic projects and specified industry best practices to develop a software dedicated to the European cosmetic compliance. In 2018, she joined FAREVA, the world's leading subcontractor in the cosmetic industry field as Regulatory Affairs Director in order to harmonize the organization of three R&D entities (France and UK) and develop safety and regulatory strategies for placing cosmetic products on the market.
