I cannot believe that we will be celebrating the holiday of Purim, Thursday evening, February 25 and Friday, February 26, on Zoom. Last year, Purim was the last time that we were able to gather as a community before the Covid restrictions began. We had our Purim carnival on Sunday March 8 and our Megillah reading on Monday evening March 9. It seems so long ago, and we can’t even imagine how so many of us could be in the building at the same time in such proximity!

So much has happened this past year that thinking back to last Purim seems more like a decade ago. Forced into isolation, left to our own technological resources, we have had to make our way with Zoom and other technology to keep on working, to see family and friends, to learn and to pray. Family members and friends may have contracted the virus and we have been in mourning for the lives taken from us. Our American society has been rocked by racial injustice and attacks on our democratic institutions, and we have had to show strength and resilience to ensure that justice and freedom would prevail.

We need Purim more than ever this year. We need the unbridled joy and revelry it brings to our lives. We need to dress up, literally and figuratively, in order to escape reality. We need the hamantaschen and the gifts we exchange with one another to make our lives happier. But, as usual, we will have to do all this over Zoom.

Yet, I am heartened by the message of the Book of Esther this year. Most years I wonder what the book is even doing in the Bible. God’s name doesn’t appear in the book. The events described clearly could not have happened and have no historical basis in fact. So why do we need a fantasy story of a Jewish woman becoming queen of Persia and saving the Jews from Haman’s evil decree?

The book is necessary because it serves to inspire us to action. Whether the Book of Esther is fact or fiction, it motivates us to fight for the rights of the oppressed. It forces us to be advocates for the downtrodden and for those whose rights are threatened. It forces us to remember the values and ideals we stand for and to stand up for them all the time.

As we await our turn to get the vaccine and as we continue to gather on Zoom, may Purim bring us hope. May we see the day soon when we can be together again and celebrate all the holidays with joy.

Happy Purim,
Rabbi Jonah Layman

Dear Friends,

By the time that you read this, I pray that a new era has started. Actually, there will be several new eras that hopefully have started. More on that in a minute...

I can’t help but add in my two cents about the disgusting display at the Capitol on January 6, 2021. After watching many hours of live news coverage, it dawned on me that I hadn’t felt the way I did since September 11, 2001. I remember back then just feeling nauseous, and that’s how I felt on January 6th. I hope none of us ever has to witness again a spectacle like that.

So, back to our new eras. As you read this, a new administration will have been inaugurated and new leaders installed. I know that I will feel an immediate sense of relief (but still wonder how it all happened). I wrote to a few friends several days ago (probably Monday 1/11/21) that I finally had the sense that more people were speaking up that “the king has no clothes on.” Refreshing. I hope all of you are looking forward to the new sense of decency and respect that I hope will blanket our country.

Another new era. As I write this, the DC government and the Commonwealth of Virginia will have moved into new phases of vaccinating residents. I truly hope that Maryland will be able to do the same shortly. As the coronavirus vaccine gets to more and more people, I look forward to resuming normal activities. I know that it will take some time, and truly I’m impatient. I guessestimate that I will be eligible to get my first vaccination by March 1 but I really hope that it’s sooner. I actually wrote to Governor Hogan the other day expressing dissatisfaction with the protocols. I did get a response, but it was boilerplate. Oh well.

I think back to all the things that I’ve missed, and realize that it could happen again. No, I’m not scared that it’s likely, but I just want to make sure that in the future that I don’t take as many things for granted. The first things that I will do is arrange to go to Long Island, NY and Gilbert, AZ where my grandchildren are. One of my grandchildren only knows me via FaceTime, Zoom and Alexa. Most of the time she’d rather be FaceTiming with a neighbor’s dog! I expect to have many lunches and dinners with friends and relatives and try to make up for lost time. I hope that you will do so also.

Stay safe.
Perry

FROM THE RABBI’S STUDY
Rabbi Jonah Layman

Purim on Zoom

PRESIDENT
Perry Sandler
Shehechiyanu for the arrival of Shevat! The more my internal clock is set to the Jewish calendar, awareness increases for the opportunities in each month for spiritual growth. In ancient times our tribe dwelled within the cycles of the seasons and what was available to grow or harvest. We have to work more in modern times to foster our connection with our natural world, as our high tech lives can interfere with it.

Yet now in the midst of winter, we are given a golden opportunity to reconnect with nature during Shevat. Sap is rising in the trees, though we cannot hear it. Growth is happening underground too, though we cannot see it. Our Torah makes many analogies between us and trees, such as:

A person is like a tree of the field. (Deut. 20:19)

He will be like a tree planted near water... (Jeremiah 17:8)

…..like humans, trees have the power to grow. And as humans have children, so trees bear fruit. And when a human is hurt, cries of pain are heard throughout the world, so when a tree is chopped down, its cries are heard throughout the world. (Rashi)

Tu B’Shevat has become for me a beloved holiday. It meant little more to me as a child other than receiving a small red box of raisins, a hard brown stick named by Hebrew School teachers as “bokser fruit” (carob), being told it was The New Year for the Trees. We gave tzedakah for planting trees in Israel. Sadly no one helped me make the connection between this holiday and my young life, much of it spent outdoors in nature. I didn’t have the words then to describe the presence of Hashem in the diversity and the beauty of trees. Hashem first breathed life into Adam, and it is through the synergy between how trees and humans breathe that sustains us. That is reason alone to celebrate and honor our trees. This Shevat every day I am outdoors in pandemic time is a blessing. Taking time to be grateful for walking; noticing daily small changes in Nature. Even briefly it pushes a reset button within.

Yes, it has felt darker in our country especially in recent weeks. We may be feeling as if we are barren trees this winter. Shevat is an ideal time to dig a bit deeper and tap our inner sap and cultivate some seeds of hope, of trust, of faith that can bloom within, come Spring. And take heart: Adar will soon be here.

ARTS AND INTERIORS COMMITTEE REPORT TO THE CONGREGATION

FRAN ABRAMS, FINE ARTS COMMITTEE

As we enter 2021, the Arts and Interiors Committee would like to take this opportunity to review some accomplishments from past years and tell you about our goal for the coming year. First, we are pleased that we were able to install an attractive sign at the entrance to our driveway. The Committee also was responsible for the design and installation of the Yahrzeit board in the Grosberg-Baumgart Chapel. Small additions to the building also increased its comfort and attractiveness. The folding tables in the chapel were replaced by a modern wood credenza. A bench was added to the Williamowsky Foyer. And another folding table in the sanctuary was replaced by a wood table. We also arranged for faux plants to be placed in the sanctuary and installed Hebrew lettering above the ark under the half-circle window. Before the building closed for the pandemic, there were art exhibits in the Winer Family Gallery from September through June.

One of our long-term goals has been and continues to be the addition of artwork in the sanctuary to add color and meaning to our experience in that significant space. Unfortunately, two proposals for artwork have fallen through. In one case, the artist withdrew from participation. Recently, the work of another artist was discontinued when we realized it was decorative but did not convey religious meaning. Some of you have asked when there will be art. We hope that we can make it happen in 2021. But we realize that whatever we put on the walls of the sanctuary will be there for many more years to come. Whatever we choose must be appropriate and inspiring. We look forward to continuing the work of improving our beautiful congregational home.

On behalf of our Purim Committee, we wish you a Hag Purim Sameach!

Questions? Contact Stephanie.
As I sit down to write this we are getting ready to celebrate the ‘New Year of the Trees,’ Tu B’Shevat, this year on the secular calendar, January 28 and always on 15th of Shevat on the Hebrew calendar. Additionally, by the time you read this, we will be preparing to celebrate Purim in late February. It is truly awesome how we can count on our cycle of holidays to continue, even during times of difficulty. Tu B’Shevat is a lovely holiday that provides many lessons on care for the environment and appreciation for the natural world. If you would like to learn more about it and about what is encompassed in a Tu B’Shevat seder, check out this site from our friends at My Jewish Learning.

At Shaare Tefila we are preparing for the festival of Purim. Mark your calendars for the reading of the Megillah on the evening of February 25. Children in grades four and up will participate in reading verses from the Book of Esther even though we are online this year. In between the chapters we will be offering some entertainment for you, so be sure to join us.

During February, Kitah Alef & Kitah Bet continue to learn about G’vurah/Strength or Power and will connect the topic themes of Purim, including the strength and courage of Esther.

Our almost monthly Junior Congregation services have been going well. Children of all ages are invited to attend, while those in grades 3-7 receive an attendance reward at the end of the year if they participate for four out of the five dates scheduled. The next one, on February 20, promises to be another engaging experience for your child/children. Be sure to have them join us.

Tot Shabbat services will be back on February 13 at 11:30 am. This gathering, led by Morah Mara Lansky, for children in preschool and those in early elementary grades, is a great time for singing praying and fun!

B’Shalom, Babette
As remote learning continues, the education gap in Montgomery County between students with resources and those without is widening dramatically. Already disadvantaged, low-income, predominantly black and brown students are among the most severely impacted groups.

Through a grassroots effort by a coalition of parents, childcare providers, non-profit and public organizations, Educational Enrichment & Equity Hubs are now operational in 40 locations throughout the county. These Hubs provide safe, supervised, internet-stable distance learning spaces for low-income, predominantly minority children. What started with 52 students in September 2020 reached nearly 855 students by November, and now nearly 1,500 students have registered for the Winter/Spring 2021 semester.

Shaare Tefila “adopted” a HUB at Highland Elementary School. Our efforts have provided headphones for 52 students and additional monies raised have gone toward the scholarship fund. There are additional expenses at each site, and there is still a critical need to fund these HUBS. We will continue to support this effort with your help. Please send checks to the synagogue, made payable to Children’s Opportunity Fund.

Also, please use this link to contact members of the Montgomery County Council and Board of Education to urge them to continue funding these critically needed HUBS.

JACOB LANSKY’S MITZVAH PROJECT: MAKING BLANKETS FOR SHELTER PETS

Jacob wishes to thank all congregants who supported his Mitzvah Project with donations and JoAnn Fabrics gift cards. In the end, he made dozens of blankets and proudly delivered them to the Montgomery County Humane Society. He hopes the pets waiting for homes will be comforted by these snuggly blankets.

We appreciate your past support and we look forward to seeing you at the show on February 6.
January was a jam-packed month for Sisterhood and hopefully everyone will find February to be just the same. I personally am excited that some of our members who are 75 or older are now able to get the Covid-19 vaccine. Hopefully that means we will all be able to come together before long, thinking optimistically maybe even as early as June. I know not to count my chickens before they hatch. We all need to be patient.

On Tuesday January 19 we had our first social hour with breakout rooms. Everyone who attended enjoyed being able to talk to her friends as if they were sitting right next to her. We will have our next social hour on Tuesday, February 16, 7:00 pm - 8:00 pm. This will be a free event for all paid-up Sisterhood members. So put the date on your calendar.

On Saturday, January 30, we had our first Sisterhood bingo game. This event was free to all Sisterhood members and we gave out prizes to the winners. We are hoping to have another bingo night coming soon. If you missed the first one, please send in your dues so you will be able to join us at the next bingo night. Please contact Audrey Haber for information about joining the Shaare Tefila Sisterhood.

Keep an eye out for other social events in March. If you have an idea for an event and/or are willing to assist with the event, please let me know at relaybenns@gmail.com.

Sisterhood is not my group or the Board’s group. The more people coming up with ideas or projects the more each person will get out of the group. Since all of our events are on Zoom, there is no reason why one cannot do something from her own home. So no matter how old you are (98 years old) or very young (early 20’s) you will always have a group to call your own at Shaare Tefila Sisterhood. Please be safe, be kind and have fun.

Searching for Bubbe Fischer: the Path to Mah Jongg Wisdom
by Karen Gooen
Sunday, February 7 at 10:00 a.m.

Join Mah Jongg instructor and writer Karen Goodwin from Randolph, NJ as she delights us with her engaging stories about her passion.

Part Mah Jongg manual, part memoir, this book tells the story of how the author search for the ultimate mentor, learned to play the game, and eventually became a Mah Jongg afdolonaldo. The book, filled with humorous anecdotes along with helpful tips and strategies, is enjoyable for both beginners and more experienced players.

The Book of Lost Names
by Kristin Harmel
Sunday, March 14 at 11:00 a.m.

We are excited to have Kristen Harmel, NY Times Best Selling Author. Join us for our third author in our series. Kristin has been writing professionally since age 16 beginning with sports writing covering major league baseball and NHL hockey for a local magazine in Tampa Bay, FL. a former reporter for People magazine, and stints writing for many other magazines, including covering everything from the Super Bowl to high-profile murders to celebrity interviews. She also contributed to numerous TV shows and has appeared on Good Morning America. Kristen currently lives in Orlando, FL.

World War II fiction inspired by a true story. A young Jewish woman is recruited to forge documents to assist in the escape of Jewish children, giving them a chance to live under a new identity. But how will the very young ever regain their original identity? This heart-wrenching, well researched novel goes into great detail to answer this mystifying question while taking readers into Nazi occupied France on a journey which includes many twists and turns.

Shaare Tefila Cemetery Plots for Sale at Mount Lebanon Cemetery

Shaare Tefila offers an option for Jewish burial with two sections of available plots at Mount Lebanon Cemetery in Adelphi, MD which are owned by our congregation. Whether you opt for a marker or monument, our cemetery’s prices are highly competitive with plots, starting as low as $940. In addition, 100% of all proceeds from the sale will go to Shaare Tefila Congregation. Please contact, Jonathan Cohen, Executive Director, for more details.

Dear Rabbi Layman,

On behalf of Olney HELP and all the people in the community we serve, please accept our heartfelt gratitude for your donation of gift cards in November to benefit our pantry.

Because of community support, we were able to provide Thanksgiving baskets for 48 families.

In this time of increased uncertainty and demand, Olney HELP continues to deliver food and provide financial assistance to those in need, with some modifications to keep our clients and volunteers safe.

We are providing additional food support for families with school age children until schools open again, and we will continue to deliver Thanksgiving and holiday baskets for some of our families.

All donations of food, grocery store gift cards for food, and financial donations are very welcome so that we can help all the additional families needing assistance during these challenging times. Your support is very much appreciated!

Sincerely,

Ruth Filbert
