Shul Notices:

Social Action is back with our "Season of Tikun Olam". From August 1-21, we will be collecting school supplies for the National Center for Children and Families.

The list of school supplies, found on page 3, includes the needs for students in grades K-2, 3-5 and 6-12.

We are very excited to be partnering with this organization again. Please contribute generously. A plastic bin will be placed outside of the synagogue for the duration of the collection.

Join the Shaare Tefila Sisterhood for their Sisterhood Membership Dinner on October 24 at 6pm. The deadline to sign up is October 15. For more details see page 3.

If you have any questions, please call me Jackie Benn at (301)- 512- 0694 or send an email to relaybenns@gmail.com.

Summary of Parashat Devarim

In this Torah portion, Moses recounts the Israelites' episodes from their 40 years in the wilderness. Moses encourages the Israelites in their upcoming conquest of the land of Canaan.

The Haftarah This Week

Tisha B'Av, the saddest day on the Jewish calendar, marks the anniversary of the destruction of the Temple. On the Shabbat before Tisha B'Av, which always coincides with Parashat Devarim, Jews read a haftarah from the beginning of the Book of Isaiah. The Shabbat before Tisha B'Av is often called Shabbat Hazon, named after the first word of the haftarah. Unlike Jeremiah and Ezekiel, who both experienced vivid visions as their initiation into prophecy, Isaiah does not report having a visions, he simply begins by condemning the people of Judah and Jerusalem for their poor behavior.

He reminds the people that God has been like a father to them, and instead of being grateful and respectful for all that He has done for them, the people continue to rebel and spurn God's authority. When they sin, they are punished. Yet instead of learning from their mistakes, the people continue to do wrong. Even the land they live on is penalized for their insidious behavior.

Isaiah tells the people that God no longer has any interest in the sacrifices that the people have been bringing to Him. Though they obediently gather in the Temple on holidays and at the beginning of every month, their lack of social justice nullifies any reward they may get for offering gifts to God.

As the haftarah progresses, Isaiah's rage wanes slightly. He tells the people to change their behavior—"Learn to do good, devote yourselves to justice, aid the wronged, uphold the rights of the orphan, defend the cause of the widow" (1:17)—and promises that they will be rewarded with a bountiful harvest.

In the closing section of the haftarah, Isaiah laments the downfall of Judah and Jerusalem, the destitution of Zion, and the injustice that is rampant. But Isaiah promises that God's anger will be abated, and there is a hint of hope for the future: "Zion shall be saved in the judgment, her repentant ones, in the retribution." (1:27)
