CORE EVENT

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTING 201 — FEDERAL MARKET RESEARCH

If you're interested in selling your goods or services to the federal government, the first thing you should do is research the federal government marketplace to learn more about it. Market research is the continuous process of collecting the data, and analyzing the information so you have a better understanding of the marketplace. This training will help you identify who your customers and competitors are, as well as the current and future outlook for your industry.

This training will be conducted in a computer lab, and will provide you with useful market research tools for:

- Researching the Consumer: Identify federal agencies that are buying what you're selling.
- Researching the Competition: Identify who wants to, or who is already selling your service or product to the federal government, and for how much.
- Researching your Industry: Identify what the federal government has purchased in the past, plans on procuring in the future, and industry trends.

To run a successful business, you need to learn about your customers, competition, and industry. Market research will provide you with valuable insight to spot current and upcoming issues in your industry, reduce your business risks, and help you identify opportunities.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND? Management and key players who will support and facilitate government contracting within your company.

CORE EVENT

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTING 301 — HOW TO FIND AND IDENTIFY FEDERAL OPPORTUNITIES

Selling to the federal government can provide significant revenues for small businesses. But it can be very time consuming trying to figure out where to find these opportunities, and how to identify the ones that are a good match for your business.

This training will teach you how to find and identify those opportunities that match your business' capabilities in a resourceful manner. This training will take place in a computer lab and provide you with tools on how to search for and recognize opportunities.

In this training, you will be taught to access various federal government e-procurement websites such as FBO, and experience searching for opportunities, as well as how to utilize FBO's advanced features to your benefit. We will also discuss and view other federal agencies' e-procurement websites as well as PTAC's BidMatch Service and SBA's SUB Net Database.

Furthermore, we will discuss various contracts, methods and competition types. Finally, we will end the training session by reviewing a solicitation and learn how to make a bid or no-bid decision.

PREREQUISITE: Government Contracting 101 and 201.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND? Management and key players who will support and facilitate government contracting within your company.

CORE EVENT

DLA INTERNET BID BOARD SYSTEM (DIBBS) TRAINING

Doing business with the Defense Logistics Agency (DLA) can be a great way to grow your current business.

DLA is the Department of Defense's largest combat support agency, providing worldwide logistics support to America's military services, civilian agencies, and foreign countries in both peacetime and wartime. They are responsible for nearly every consumable item used by our military forces worldwide to include medical supplies, aviation requirements, land and maritime weapon systems spare parts, critical troop-support items involving food, clothing, and textiles, in addition to construction equipment and material, fuel, and depot level repairables.

DLA has a web-based application called DIBBS that provides you with the capability to filter your search, view, and submit secure quotes for Request for Proposals (RFPs), Request for Quotes (RFQs), and Invitations for Bid (IFBs), as well as search for and view Awards and other procurement information related to DLA.

Our comprehensive training is broken out into the following three parts:

- Overview: Basic Prerequisites, Market Research, DLA, DIBBS
- DIBBS Tools: How to search for opportunities and submit a quote in DIBBS, C Folders, Unique Procurement Identifiers update, Past Performance Information Retrieval System (PPIRS), and Frequently Asked Questions
- Packaging and Shipping Information: DLA Packaging and Vendor Shipment Module (VSM)

CORE EVENT

FEDERAL ACQUISITION REGULATIONS (FAR) ORIENTATION AND OVERVIEW

Is your business selling to the government, or are you thinking of expanding your business into the federal marketplace? If so, it is important you take the time to understand the rules and regulations you must follow to avoid costly pitfalls.

The Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) governs all acquisitions and contracting procedures in the federal government. It is a substantial and complex set of rules governing the federal government's purchasing process, and its purpose is to ensure purchasing procedures are standard and conducted in a fair and impartial manner.

If you are interested in obtaining a better understanding of the FAR, the Federal Acquisition Regulations (FAR) Orientation and Overview is designed for you. For each FAR part, this comprehensive training will describe the basic concepts that every federal contractor should be aware of. Additionally, through the course of the training, attendees will learn how to navigate the FAR so they may more easily reference it as the need arises.

This event will cover the following:

- FAR Overview
- FAR Sub-chapters (A through H)
- FAR Clause Flow Downs

PREREQUISITE: Government Contracting 101.

SPECIAL EVENTS

SPECIAL EVENT

DOING BUSINESS WITH DEFENSE LOGISTICS AGENCY (DLA) LAND—WARREN

The Small Business Administration (SBA) and the Macomb Regional PTAC are pleased to present Doing Business with Defense Logistics Agency (DLA) Land—Warren. This event is designed to connect small businesses with the federal buying marketplace. Small businesses will have the opportunity to pitch their product or service to decision makers—federal procurement officers and prime contractors who purchase in the industry in which they do business.

How can small businesses benefit by attending? DLA Land—Warren and BAE, GDLS, Navistar and Oshkosh will share their inside tips on how to navigate the world of federal procurement. You'll learn what buyers are looking for and how the purchasing process works inside government agencies.

After lunch (on your own), the business matchmaking session is your opportunity to meet in small groups with federal procurement officers and prime contractors to pitch your business capabilities and identify which buyers are a "fit" for your company. The NAICS codes the Defense Logistics Agency Land—Warren targets are:

SPECIAL EVENT

DUAL-USE TECHNOLOGY BRIEFING (DUTB)

The military depends on commercial business to develop new goods and technologies for the protection of the war-fighter, and to advance homeland security. This half-day event will deliver information on how companies developing innovative technology can do business with the United States Tank Automotive Research, Development and Engineering Center (TARDEC).

TARDEC's dual-use SBIR Program's goal is to tap into the small business community's innovativeness and creativity to help meet government R&D objectives. At the same time, these small companies develop technologies, products and services they can then commercialize through sales in the private sector or back to the government.

The event will provide an overview of the following:

- The Cooperative Research & Development Agreements (CRADA) program
- R & D Contracting with the U.S. Army
- The Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) Program
- Resource Panel
- Industry Perspective

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

Companies interested in or currently developing innovative technology that fits dual-use needs of the military and private sector.

NOTE: Registrants must be a U.S. citizen and will be required to present a valid state driver's license with picture when they sign in.
