Overview It might be hard in the midst of a pandemic to think about traveling much further than the grocery store, but we will all be out there traveling again one day. So why not be ready to pack and travel lightly when that time comes. Don't you want to make that first trip more about having fun rather than being frustrated lugging heavy bags that have been checked and possibly, did not make your destination with you! In this Zoom session, Houston alumnae, Marybeth Flaherty, will share her tips and tricks for making your carryon bag hold all you need to enjoy a three-week trip without feeling like you are wearing the same thing over and over. Do you have your first destination after quarantine determined? Marybeth will be packing for Spain and Portugal. She hopes to see you on September 30th at either noon or 7PM to see what she is putting in her carryon.
