David S. Cheng, MD, specializes in the rehabilitation and nonoperative treatment of spine disorders. Dr. Cheng strives to provide patient care that is thoughtful, compassionate, individualized, and evidence based.

He is board-certified in both physical medicine and rehabilitation (PM&R) and pain medicine. After graduating from Boston University School of Medicine, Dr. Cheng completed his residency at New York Presbyterian-Hospital (University Hospital of Columbia and Cornell) where he was selected as chief resident. Afterward, he completed a fellowship in pain medicine at New York University Medical Center. Dr. Cheng also trained at the Hospital for Special Surgery and the Hospital for Joint Diseases. He later joined Midwest Orthopaedics at Rush University Medical Center in Chicago, where he served as a physician to the Chicago Bulls and White Sox before starting at USC in 2020.
