Mid-Rise Multifamily Planned for Herndon Office Site near Innovation Center Metro

Another aging office site along the newly-opened Silver Line extension is slated for residential redevelopment, according to rezoning plans filed by Aventon Holdings II, LLC.

The applicant is proposing a 348-unit building and associated structured parking garage a half-mile southeast of the Innovation Center Metro station that “will fit into the fabric of the community,” according to the statement of justification filed by attorney Lynne Strobel (Walsh Colucci Lubeley & Walsh P.C.).

“The rezoning of the subject property to the PRM District to develop a multifamily residential building will create a distinctive, livable community in proximity to transit, public amenities, retail, and other neighborhood services,” the December 29th statement continues.

The five-acre site sits at the southeast corner of River Birch Road and Dulles Technology Drive, directly south of the Dulles Executive Plaza complex. The subject property is bound by the Merrybrook Run stream valley to the south, planned athletic fields to the west, and a 172-unit stacked townhome project that is currently under construction by Stanley Martin Homes to the east.

Filed CDP plans show a 392,000-square-foot, 75-foot-tall building wrapping a 418-space structured garage, which will be screened by residential units on all four sides. The existing access point off River Birch Road will be replaced by a new private drive along Dulles Technology Drive at the northeast corner of the site.

As part of its public benefits package, the applicant is proposing 17 WDU units (14 percent), more than two acres of open space (one acre required), sidewalk widening along both major frontages (from four to eight feet), and addition of a shared use trail to the stream valley along the southern edge of the property. The applicant has also requested a parking reduction (from 1.6 to 1.2 spaces per unit) given the site's proximity to transit.

"The proposed development has been thoughtfully designed with high-quality architecture; well-landscaped public spaces; the preservation and restoration of on-site environmental features; and an improved sidewalk and roadway network that enhances connectivity and facilitates safe and convenient access to the Innovation Center Metrorail Station," reads the statement.

The property is located in the Tier 3 area of the Innovation Center TSA (Transit Station Area) and is planned for a maximum intensity of 1.5 FAR. While the comprehensive plan recommends a mix of residential and commercial uses, individual developments "have flexibility" to deviate from the stated percentages—45 percent or more for residential and 50 percent for non-residential—if the overall mix of uses within the area remains within those percentages, according to the applicant.

Developing the subject property as 100-percent residential will only increase the percentage of residential uses in Tier 3 to approximately 46.5 percent, according to the applicant, with the existing and proposed non-residential uses accounting for approximately 53.5 percent—thus "the proposal maintains the proportionate overall mix of uses in Tier 3 as recommended by the plan," reads the statement.

The subject site sits amid a rapidly-redeveloping area on either side of the Innovation Center Metro. Three major residential communities are in various stages of buildout south of the Dulles Toll Road: to the northwest is the three-million-square-foot Dulles Station, where the final residential land bay is currently under staff review; to the northeast, the Arrowbrook Centre where the bulk of the 2.3-million-square-feet of low- to medium density residential uses have been constructed; and to the west, MRP Realty's Liberty Park, where more than 1,340 residential units have been approved at a 33-acre site.

North of the Toll Road, development remains in the conceptual stage: two plan amendments were recently filed to allow an all-affordable building (500 units) on county-owned land and a hybrid multifamily-townhome project up to a 1.6 FAR on an eight-acre Rock Hill Road site.

All-Affordable Project at Government Center Moves toward Approval

The public-private partnership between the county's housing authority and Lincoln Financial Capital took its first step toward securing approval for a 279-unit, all-affordable project with on-site daycare at the Fairfax Government Center.

If approved, the comprehensive plan amendment will allow an additional 70,000-square feet in development potential beyond existing guidance and open the door for a concurrent CDP amendment to be heard by the planning commission next month, said Braddock Commissioner Mary Cortina at a January 11th meeting.

“I find this plan amendment to be consistent with the comprehensive plan for the Fairfax Center area,” she said.

“One of the most impactful actions of the board is to build affordable housing through the FCRHA with public-private partnerships on county-owned land.”

Dubbed Fairfax One, the proposal is part of a broader, long-term initiative to transition the 90-acre government center into a “community-oriented center of activity,” according to the applicant’s statement of justification.

In 2017, FCRHA opened the Residences at the Government Center on the northern edge of the site where 270 units are reserved for those earning 60-percent of the area median income.

That community’s success has been “seen as a model for innovative partnerships” between the housing authority and private developers, according to county staff, leading the county board to transfer ownership of the 4.5-acre subject site (parking lots G and H) on the western edge of the government complex to the FCRHA in 2020.

CDPA drawings filed earlier this month show two buildings—one E-shaped, the other C-shaped—rising five stories atop a shared 333-space below-grade garage. The multi-wing structures will open toward each other, creating a street presence on Government Center Parkway and framing a pedestrian promenade and series of open spaces that will run through the center of the site and “act as a gateway into the Government Center,” according to the statement filed by attorney Brian Winterhalter (DLA Piper LLP).

The daycare and a 5,000-square-foot service facility space will be located at the eastern edge of the North Building along a new north-south street; two tenant amenity spaces will face the internal courtyards and promenade.

At the December 2022 public hearing, several residents from the adjacent Carriage House townhome community expressed concern with traffic, school capacity, and impact on the existing forested areas and trail system. Those who testified requested that the proposed plan amendment be delayed until the broader visioning exercise for the government center authorized by the county board takes place this summer.

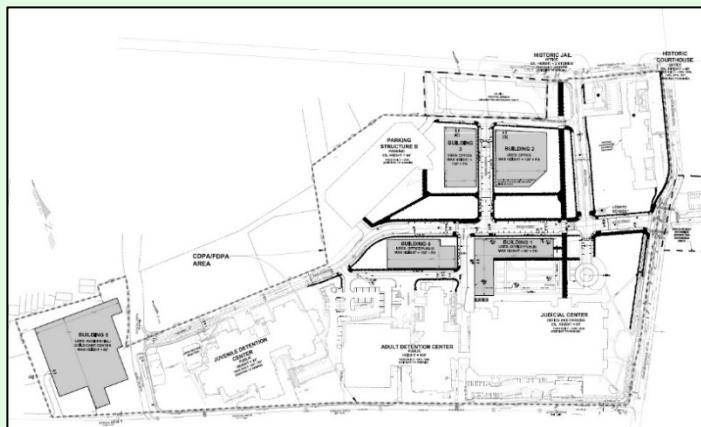

County staff and the Braddock supervisor's office held several meetings with the adjacent residents after the December hearing on the project. The Braddock land use committee voted to support the project this month; further, future CDPAs will allow for more specific issues to be addressed by the applicant, said Cortina.

"We can write certain proffers to help with the mitigation," she explained.

A board of supervisors' public hearing on the Residences at Government Center II plan amendment, which is on an accelerated entitlement review to allow the applicant to apply for the LIHTC cycle in March, is scheduled for January 24th.

Plans Filed for New Judicial Complex Master Plan; Springfield Car Dealership

Fairfax County filed plans to add more than 1.0 million-square feet of new development at the county's judicial complex, including three county office buildings, a new diversion and community re-entry facility, and 300 units of affordable housing.

Source: RZPA-2022-PR-00152 Filing (12/14/2022)

Referred to as "the judicial epicenter" of the county, the 48-acre subject site currently comprises 1.4 million-square feet of institutional uses—including the historic courthouse building, adult and juvenile detention facilities, and police administrative space. The complex is a county enclave within the city of Fairfax, bound by Chain Bridge Road to the east, Main Street to the north, and Judicial Drive to the south and west.

Over the next 20 years, a multiphase development plan will introduce five new buildings and associated open space to take advantage of the "infill potential" of the property, according to the statement of justification. The county plans to demolish two existing buildings (the police annex and school administrative and annex buildings) and one parking garage, helping "unlock the development potential on remainder of property" by relocating and consolidating services elsewhere on the site.

First-phase development will feature a new 90-foot-tall county office building, pedestrian promenade, and relocated entrance that will align with the proposed extension of South Street in Old Town Fairfax. Subsequent phases will include the renewal of the historic courthouse, demolition of several existing buildings and one parking garage, and construction of two office buildings, as well as a standalone affordable housing building (with on-site childcare) and a social services building that will feature short-term and long-term supportive housing.

Springfield Hyundai PCA/SE. Safford Hyundai is looking to expand its existing dealership along Loisdale Road in Springfield, according to a proffer condition amendment and special exception application filed this month.

The FAIRFAX Newsletter

The 7.6-acre site sits amid a string of auto dealerships along the eastern edge of Loisdale Road north of the Fairfax County Parkway/I-95 interchange. The C-6-zoned property is currently occupied by single dealership building and associated parking.

The applicant is proposing a proffer condition amendment and special exception to allow a second dealership building to exclusively offer its luxury brand (Genesis) vehicles. Drawings show a 12,000-square-foot building on a portion of the surface parking lot on the southern half of the site.
