Document	Description	Position	Committee	Hearing Date	Status
	Beginning Jan. 1, 2028, imposes an excise tax of 3 cents per kWh on electric energy used to charge the battery of a motor vehicle at a commercial EV charging station (does not include the residence of a person where a vehicle is charged if no customer usage fee is charged). Sales and use taxes shall not be imposed on the gross receipts from the sale, use, or consumption of electric energy when stored, used, or consumed by a motor vehicle and the electricity was subject to the 3-cent/kWh excise tax. Defines direct-current, fast-charging station operator as a business entity offering such charging to the public; the term does not include an electric supplier or political subdivision. A commercial EV charging station operator may receive electric energy solely from an electric supplier with the right to serve the location and shall not offer, provide, sell, or resell electric energy at wholesale or retail for any purpose or use other than the charging of EVs at the location of the commercial EV charging station. A commercial EV charging station operator may charge EV charging customers on the basis of kilowatt hours consumed. A commercial EV charging station is subject to the interconnection requirements, electric rates, and service regulations of the electric supplier in whose certified service area the commercial EV charging station is located. Nothing in sections 70-1001 to 70-1028 shall prohibit an electric supplier from owning and operating an EV charging station or recovering its costs to provide electric service to a commercial electric vehicle charging station. Requires NEVI-funded stations to be installed by installers who have obtained certification from the EV Infrastructure Training Program. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit the use of batteries with a commercial EV charging station if such battery is charged with electric energy received solely from an electric supplier. Establishes a right of first refusal: An electric supplier shall have the authority to own, maintain, and operate a direct-current, fast-charging (DCFC) station for retail services only under all of the following conditions: (a) An electric supplier shall only develop, own, maintain, or operate a DCFC station at a location which is at least 15 miles from a privately owned DCFC station that is already existing or under construction and at least one mile from an alternative fuel corridor designated by the Federal Highway Administration; and (b) Before beginning construction of a DCFC station that is developed, owned, maintained, or operated by such electric supplier, the electric supplier shall conduct a right of first refusal process as follows: (i) At least 90 days prior to beginning construction of a DCFC station, the electric supplier shall publish notice in a newspaper in or of general circulation in the county where the DCFC station will be located as well as on its website. Such notice shall contain the beginning construction date, the construction location, the electric supplier's mailing address and email address, and the method by which a DCFC station operator may notify the electric supplier that such operator plans to provide a DCFC station within 15 miles of the proposed construction location; (ii) If during such 90-day period one or more operators assert their right of first refusal by providing notification, the electric supplier shall not construct the DCFC station; and (iii) If after the 90-day period no DCFC station operator has asserted a right of first refusal to provide a DCFC station within 15 miles of the location proposed by an electric supplier, or if after notification is received no DCFC station service is provided within 18 months by a DCFC station operator, the electric supplier may proceed with construction of a DCFC station at the proposed location. An electric supplier that provides a DCFC station pursuant to this section shall do so under rates, tolls, rents, and charges that shall be fair, reasonable, nondiscriminatory, and available to all DCFC station operators in the electric supplier's service territory for the purposes of operating DCFC stations.				Erdman AM2611 filed Notice of hearing for February 22, 2024 Referred to Revenue Committee Date of introduction

Talking Points:

The most efficient and effective way to build out Nebraska's electric vehicle (EV) charging market is by embracing private investment and the inherent competition and innovation that comes with it.

Document	Description	Position	Committee	Hearing Date	Status
	It is essential that Nebraska build a reliable, convenient, and customer-driven EV charging market that is based upon fairness and a competitive, level playing field. The industry has worked cooperatively with Senator Bostar and EV stakeholders to craft legislation that would allow retailers to charge by the kilowatt hour and that would establish a right of first refusal process for building out the network. Having a system dominated by a government-sanctioned monopoly using money from captive ratepayers is no way to grow a competitive charging market, particularly when the private sector is willing to invest its own resources into this market. Without a change in policy, there is an ongoing threat of electric utilities making use of their status as monopolies to gain a competitive edge over private businesses. Electric utilities can do this by charging all ratepayers – regardless of income or whether they drive an EV – more money to underwrite their investment in charging stations, imposing unnecessary and regressive costs on ratepayers while also preventing investments by the private sector. The provisions in LB1218 will ensure that public power utilities can only build charging stations in areas where the private sector is not meeting the need. Amended into LB1317 by ComAM3246
