

ECE EQUITY INSTITUTE: TEACHING FOR CHANGE PRESENTED BY: BANDTEC

Bay Area Network For Diversity
Training in Early Childhood
Dr. Cheryl Williams Jackson,
Lead Trainer

“Having our teaching team participate was a transformative experience. As we shared our personal stories and uncovered our biases, we grew as a team and started hearing real conversations about diversity and equity issues as early educators.” Patrick Romero

Equity is so much more than celebrating diversity.

We invite you to join BANDTEC trainers on an exciting journey of examination and exploration to find the answers to the following questions about:

- How bias and prejudice affect teaching, learning and ECE practices
- Becoming a culturally sensitive/responsive teacher of young children of diverse backgrounds
- Incorporating effective teaching practices that help to close the achievement and opportunity gap

The four core goals of the Anti-Bias curriculum is integrated into the institute's training content.
