

Michael Kean, RN, CFRN

Flight Nurse | Native 4 | Air Methods Corporation

Michael Kean is a seasoned flight nurse at Air Methods Corporation, serving with Native 4 and bringing over eight years of experience in critical care transport within the aviation environment. He specializes in the rapid, high-acuity transport of critically ill and injured patients, delivering advanced clinical care under the most challenging conditions.

Michael's dedication to emergency medicine extends beyond the aircraft. He actively contributes to the education of local first responders by teaching landing zone safety and operations to EMS and fire departments throughout the region.

Before joining Air Methods, Michael spent 15 years with Yavapai County Backcountry Search and Rescue, gaining extensive field experience in air rescue, rope rescue, and swift water operations. His foundation in emergency medical services began on the ground with Lifeline Ambulance, where he developed his core EMS skills. He later advanced his clinical expertise in the intensive care unit at Yavapai Regional Medical Center, solidifying his background in critical care.

Michael's diverse and dynamic career reflects a deep commitment to patient care, teamwork, and operational excellence in air medical transport.
