Framing Social Science Research Effectively for National Institutes of Health Proposals

Time: May 1, 2020 12:00 PM- 2:00 PM Mountain Time (US and Canada)

The goal of this discussion will be to provide some specific training for our research community on the following topics:

- How to develop strong social science research questions that will be viewed positively by NIH?
- How to structure research aims that speak to the language NIH reviewers will be looking for?
- How to integrate social and health scientists with community partnered research teams?

Our panel includes the following scholars from our TREE Center network who have experience across the goals of our workshop:

Facilitated by: Dr. Gabriel R. Sanchez

Panel Speakers Include:
- Dr. Lisa Cacari Stone
- Dr. Steve Verney
- Dr. Shannon Sanchez-Youngman
- Dr. Janet Page-Reeves
