In order to effectuate immediate, real, and sustained change in the integration of women and diverse professionals in corporate America and beyond, the diversity and inclusion movement must be integrated with male leadership. We must escape the echo chamber. Our GOOD Guys program (GOOD=Guys Overcoming Obstacles to Diversity) was designed based on studies about exactly how to accomplish this critical mission.

A typical GOOD Guys program includes a GOOD Guys panel where male leaders attending the program learn from other male leaders, who are their peers and persons they look up to and will follow, about the value of diversity and inclusion. Join us for a top notch GOOD Guys panel. Learn how to organize your own GOOD Guys panel and observe a GOOD Guys panel in action.
