As the coronavirus (COVID-19) continues to spread around the world, we have a heightened awareness at The Honeycomb Project of our responsibility to our employees, volunteers, and partners during this critical time. While this is a developing situation, we are implementing initial safety precautions for the month of March/April, including:

We will delay April registration for two weeks to closely monitor the CDC for COVID-19 developments and recommendations. We plan to open April programs for registration on March 23 at 9 am (subject to change).

For the next 30 days, we are cancelling all food preparation projects and projects serving vulnerable populations. If you registered for a March project, please review the list of suspended projects below. If you have signed up for one of these projects and made a donation, you may request a refund by emailing us here.

For select projects that will stay on the schedule, we will take extra measures to reduce the spread of the virus by providing additional hand sanitizers, disinfectant wipes, and latex-free gloves for all volunteers. Our website will accurately reflect scheduled programs.

For those families who are healthy and comfortable continuing to volunteer, we are adding language to all project communication ensuring that Honeycomb volunteers are aware of best practices to reduce the spread of the virus. CDC informational signs will be posted at all projects.

We understand that, based on your own comfort and health conditions, you might elect to cancel your registration for upcoming March project. You may do this anytime by logging into your My Hive account.

We are grateful for your patience as we work through these challenges. Thank you for all that you do to support The Honeycomb Project and the more than 40 partner organizations we serve. If you have any question or concerns, please reach out.

Thank you,

Kristina Lowenstein & Catherine Tannen
