Responsible venues can take all the precautions to limit the opportunities for drugs to be dealt and used on the premises.

Sadly accidents will happen as people will front load their drugs before entering the venue and the illegal drug market does not supply a consistent product.

Look to work with all relevant services and provide as much health/harm reduction messages as you can. Provide training for all staff on what to watch out for and circulate drug/health warnings to them as and when needed.

Recreational drug users do not see their drug use as deviant behaviour, but as part of their normal social activities.

They take drugs because they want to and they, generally, enjoy it.

If you know that people may be taking, or be under the influence of drugs, then you should ensure your premises, staff and customers are as safe as possible.

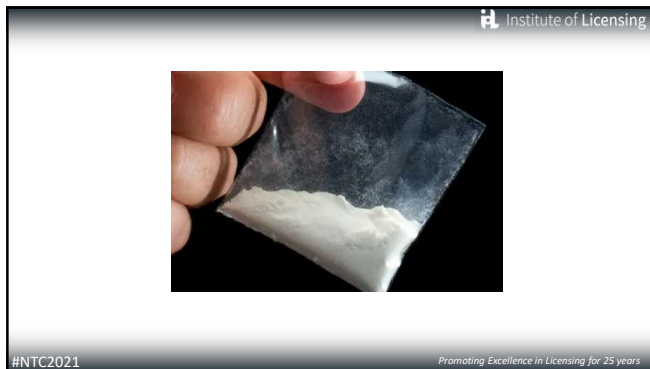

Are "Zero Tolerance" posters the best message?

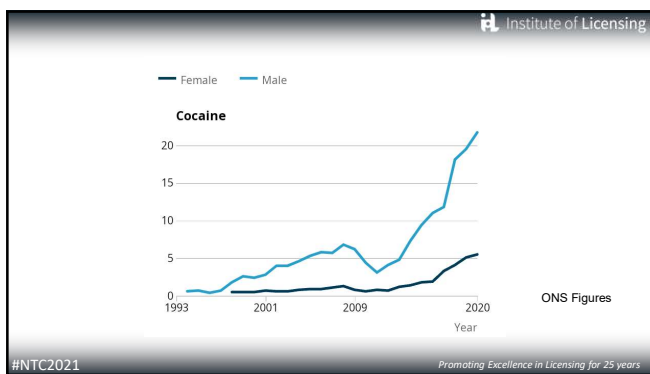

Provide harm reduction messages.
Have staff trained to know what to look for and know what advice to give.

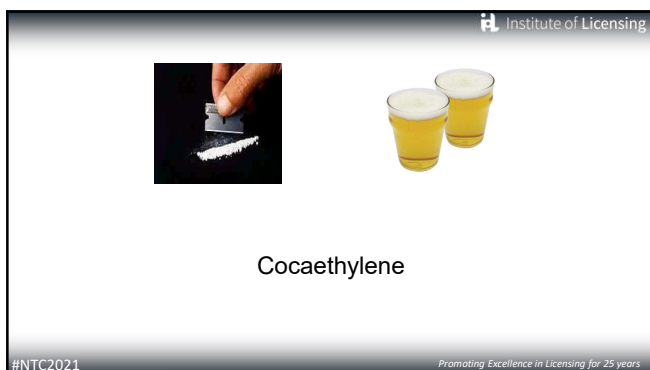

Have a Drug Awareness lead staff member, in the same way you would have a Fire Officer or First Aider?

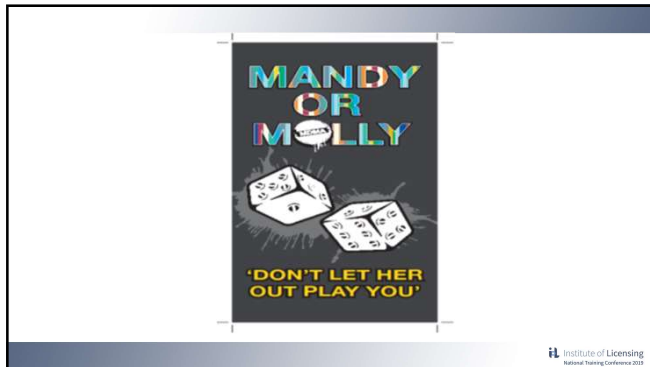

Providing harm reduction advice is not condoning drug use, it is reducing risks

CAUTION: Pharaoh pills
4 pills - 4 different drugs

- Yellow pill contains benzocaine, a local anaesthetic used in dentistry & as a bulking agent for cocaine, but not psychoactive.
- Blue pill contains 4-CMC, a cathinone with more stimulation & less euphoria than MDMA.
- Pink pill contains eutylone, a potent cathinone that can cause severe insomnia & psychosis.
- Brown pill contains MDMA.

Pills that look similar can contain completely different drugs.

Drug checking services like The Loop reduce your risk of taking an imposter drug.
