League Tidbits - June 15, 2026

Republicans in the Senate tried attaching the anti-voting SAVE America Act to the reconciliation bill in the early morning hours of June 5, but it failed after a 48-50 vote.

In a win for Virginia voters, a federal judge approved an agreement that prevents state officials from rejecting college students' voter registration applications solely for missing certain address information.

A federal judge ruled that protesters criticizing Trump near the Capitol could not be forced to take down a flag reading “8647,” finding no indication that the message could be taken as a true threat against the president’s life.

Two months after the Supreme Court struck down its previous law, Colorado’s governor signed new updated legislation to protect LGBTQ+ kids from conversion therapy.

Coalitions of retired judges are drawing on their distinctive positions to file forceful briefs supporting challenges to what they said was lawless conduct by the administration.