

Grandparent Role in Family Faith Formation

“Young Catholics are leaving the Faith. Nearly 63% said they stopped being Catholic between the ages of 10 and 17.”

~ Our Sunday Visitor, 2016

The obvious question is, “Why?”

There are many reasons but one of the most prominent is the lack of solid faith formation in the home.

LEGACY OF FAITH

Grandparents have a tremendous opportunity to leave a legacy of faith in their families. Research shows grandparents can play a significant role in handing on the faith to their grandchildren.

QUESTIONS TO BE ANSWERED

- What is the grandparent role in family faith formation?
- What is the Church’s teaching?
- What are some practical suggestions for grandparents to fulfill this role?
- How can parishes assist in equipping grandparents for their vocation?
- What happens if the parents resist?

NEW PRESENTATION

These questions and more are addressed in the new presentation prepared by the Office of Formation and Discipleship entitled, “The Grandparent Role in Family Faith Formation.”

The target audience is parents, grandparents and all ages of seniors.
