PRESCHOOL DANCE

This website provides preschool dance activities with video and audio links. The activities are modeled by the teacher, who has created a number of lovely songs and activities to engage her students. This is a very age-appropriate site. It might inspire you to create your own instructional videos for your littlest ones.

TEACHING ELEMENTS OF DANCE

<https://www.elementsofdance.org>

Accessible elements of dance on-line lessons suitable for upper elementary and middle school dancers. Each lesson involves viewing a short video and responding using worksheets that you can download as PDF or a word doc. This can be a good place to begin.

A project of the Perpich Center for Arts Education in partnership with University of MN Dance Program including support from University Research Opportunity Program (UROP).

JACOBS PILLOW

<https://www.pbs.org/wnet/americanmasters/search-results/?q=dance#gsc.tab=0&gsc.q=dance&gsc.page=1>

Here you will find thousands of video excerpts to build lessons around! Consider selecting a video clip and creating your own word doc as worksheet. You might also consider focusing on an element of dance as above, the choreographer's life and work overall, on partnering, on choreographic device, or any other dance element.

DANCE EDUCATION COMMUNITY FORUM

This is a Facebook group of New York city dance educators who share resources, not only for virtual learning, but for surviving and thriving on-the-job! When you request to join you need to answer a series of questions verifying that you are an educator to join the group.

DANCIO.COM - TECHNIQUE CLASSED ONLINE

This is an on-line dance technique teaching platform and it is a subscription service. However, they are offering two free weeks of instruction. Definitely worth checking out, and again might you'll inspire you to create your own instructional videos.

DANCE ED TIPS

<https://www.facebook.com/danceEDtips/>

Dance Ed Tips Is a company dedicated to providing dance educators with tools and resources. Much of what they provide is for sale. However, they are publishing very useful daily tips on their Facebook page.

DANCE MAKER APP

If you are doing dance-making with your students (especially if it's LMA-based), take a look at DEL's app, Dancemaker.

<https://apps.apple.com/us/app/dancemaker/id1180809091>

<https://play.google.com/store/apps/details?id=com.dancemaker.android>

It's free, and the interface is pretty intuitive.

THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY OF THE PERFORMING ARTS

They have a page on their website with links to 5 public domain films that can be used for teaching, as well as resource guides on the Radical Bodies exhibit and the Jerome Robbins exhibit.
