Housing [in]Security in the Midst of COVID-19 and other community disasters

SEPA VOAD Guidance for Houses of Worship, Community Organizations, Community Centers, Public Libraries, Elected Officials' Offices

The Need: Given that unemployment has jumped several percentage points since March when social distancing began, the health impacts of COVID-19, and other related factors, families are having difficulty meeting expenses for rent, mortgages and essential necessities (food, medicine, clothing). Many expect and eviction and housing crisis in the coming weeks.

State Rental and Mortgage Assistance

PA Housing Finance Agency <http://phfa.org/>.
Applications are available now for people interested in requesting CARES rent or mortgage relief due to COVID-19. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has created a program to assist homeowners, and tenants and their landlords with gap funding through the CARES Act. This funding is made through the Pennsylvania Fair Housing Agency, PFHA.

Challenges: Applications are coming in incomplete and some landlords are not interested in participating, and their participation on the application is required.

How you can help:

- Familiarize an outreach team about the requirements and read the FAQs on PHFA website.
- Help people who may have language and other barriers, to apply for the program.
- Support landlords in other ways via the community

- There is an agency in each county dedicated to administering this program. Visit or call them to find out the best way to advocate for those in your community.

Federal Moratorium Extensions:

The Federal Government issued moratorium extensions for mortgage holders and tenants through the end of the calendar year on December 31, 2020. These directives have been put in place to limit the spread of COVID19, while allowing tenants and landlords to work towards a solution for minimizing evictions. Information on the moratoriums can be found at:

For Homeowner Foreclosures: FHFA Extension

For Rental Evictions: Federal Register

Challenges:

With the updated moratorium extensions for both foreclosures and evictions, many households do not understand their rights under the law.

How you can help:

Assist tenants with their understanding of what their rights are under the current conditions. Each tenant will need to complete a declaration and submit a copy of it to their landlord. The link below provides translations to the declaration in 5 languages.
