Emmaus Road

Two of Jesus' friends were walking to a town called Emmaus. As they walked, a stranger joined them.

"Why do you look so sad?" asked the stranger.

Cleopas sighed. "Our friend Jesus died."

"We thought he was God's promised savior," said Salome.

The stranger smiled. "Jesus was God's promised savior."

"How do you know?" Cleopas asked.

The stranger told them lots of stories from the Bible. "All these stories are really about Jesus," he said.

"Wow!" Salome said. "That makes sense!"

That night they had supper together. The stranger picked up the bread and broke it. All of a sudden, Cleopas and Salome recognized the stranger.

"It's really Jesus!" Cleopas shouted. "He's alive again!"

Jesus disappeared. Cleopas and Salome ran back to Jerusalem to tell their friends they had seen Jesus.

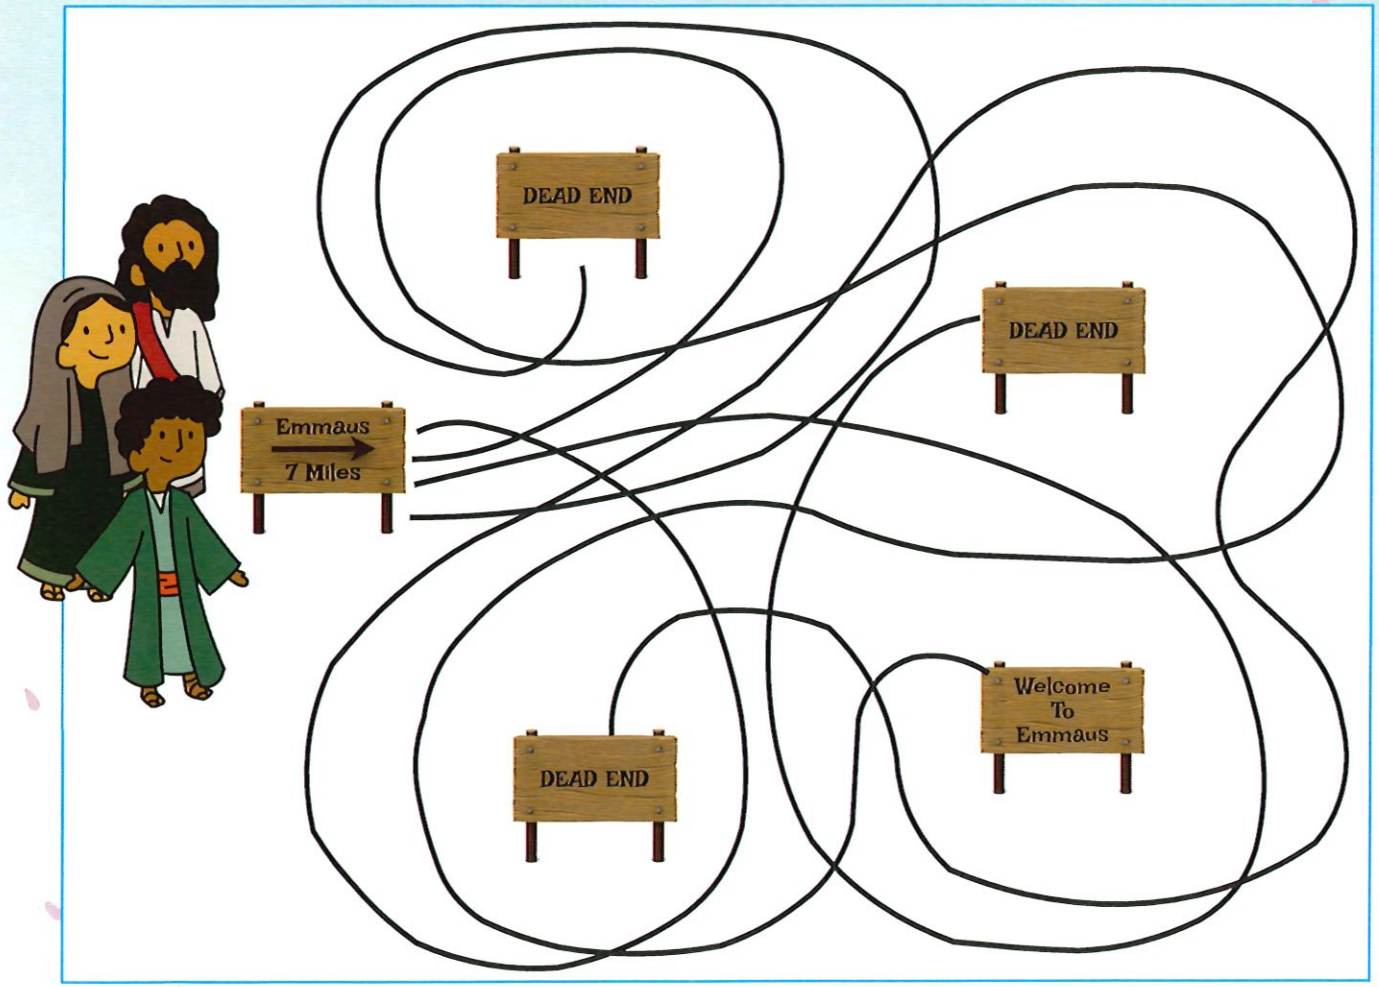

REMEMBER THIS

BREAKING BREAD

Having a meal with someone. But it can also mean sharing a moment of friendship and trust.

EMMAUS WALK

Jesus' friends are so interested in what he's saying they're not paying attention to where they're going. Help them choose the right road to get them to Emmaus.

Did You Know?

Emmaus was around 7 miles from Jerusalem. At a casual walking pace, it would have taken about two hours for Jesus' friends to get there.

TRY IT AT HOME!

With permission, invite someone over to dinner this week to "break bread" together. Can you sense God's loving presence as you spend time together at the table?
