

About Anne

Anne B. Freedman, is an internationally recognized business communication and executive presentation consultant, corporate trainer, author and E-course developer. As founder and president of Speakout, Inc., a Miami-based company established in 1990, her mission in life is "to help prevent everyone from ever having to listen to or give another boring speech or ineffective presentation. And to keep the art of face-to-face communication alive and well!"

Anne works with executives and community leaders to create powerful messages for live and video presentations, while reducing the frustration and anxiety of public speaking. Bilingual, in English and Spanish, she also conducts programs on team and leadership communication, networking skills, and developing elevator speeches. Clients include Perry Ellis International, Katz Barron, PA, Kaufman Rossin CPAs, NBC Universal, Cable & Wireless Company, DHL, Western Union, Royal Caribbean, Florida International University, Banco do Brasil, SAB Miller, and many other multinational and US corporations, nonprofits and business owners.

A University of Florida graduate and former journalist, Anne is the author of Public Speaking for the Genius, developer of Speak Your Way to the Top, and Speak to Succeed, E-courses geared to corporate executives, and business owners, community leaders plus a collection of e-books and videos.

Active in the community, Anne currently serves on the International Task Force of the National Association of Women Business Owners (NAWBO) and is past president of Miami NAWBO. She serves on the Florida International Bankers Association's Women's Leadership Committee, a member of OWIT, Greater Miami Society of Human Resources Management, Coconut Grove Chamber of Commerce, Miami-Dade Women's Chamber of Commerce, and is involved in other business and civic groups.