ABOUT THE ACMHAI INTERACTIVE MAP

A product of the Children's Behavioral Health Committee (CBHC)

One of the goals of the CBHC is to examine, promote, and advance children's behavioral health, evidence-based practices through member sharing and education and training. Over the past months the Committee has worked on surveying children's behavioral health service providers throughout Illinois in effort to learn about evidence-based practices that are being implemented and demonstrating successful impact in a variety of geographical areas, rural, urban, and inner city.

In effort to promote and advance the work that has been shared, an interactive map has been created that can be utilized to access and view information to learn more about each practice. It is our hope that service providers researching evidence-based practices will find this information helpful and others viewing the map will help us broaden the map to include additional evidence-based practices by submitting their information to showcase their work.

NOTE: The ACMHAI map is not an exhaustive listing of all children's behavioral health evidence-based best practices. The map only lists those providers/services that were submitted to ACMHAI via the CBHC survey. If you or someone you know has information on additional children's behavioral health evidence-based best practices not currently listed on the map, please submit that information, here. You may also contact ACMHAI State Coordinator, Jodi Dart at jdart@acmhαι.org with any updates to the map or additional information.
