

July Final Publishing Error

Aloha LAX,

Some of you may have noticed that the July Final Awards were published with flight attendants who are currently on a leave. This may have caused confusion to the group but be aware that this was done in error. When the company publishes the final awards, they must manually check a box that removes ineligible bidders from the award. This box was not checked and resulted in the publishing error. This error did not affect anyone's final award.

We have notified the company of this mistake and have reminded them of the extra step needed before publishing the final awards.

If you have any questions, please feel free to reach out to your officers.

Mahalo,
