re: Company Vaccination Mandate, update

Dear Fellow Flight Attendants:

We are one week away from the company's vaccination mandate. Many of our members have been asking questions about the company timeline, flights and schedules, and the process that our TPTP Flight Attendants can expect on January 5, 2022. Unfortunately, we have no new information from our last update.

We have also received questions about the company's COVID-19 policy. Although there is information on the company platforms/websites, you can also reach out to the various company departments should you have questions or need clarification. With everything that is going on, it is imperative that you have the correct information and contact information especially for the respective company departments.

You will also find a complete listing of In-Flight Management contacts on the IFS Sharepoint.

Thank you for your patience and understanding while we all wait to hear back from the company and MEC.
