

Community Conversations

Conversation leads to discovery.

Becoming socially aware builds community.

As a community, it is time to come together to engage in uncomfortable but meaningful conversations on diversity.

Let's get uncomfortable as we reflect, question, share experiences, and express honest perspectives.

Each session in our Community Conversations series will feature a guest facilitator to lead us through these dialogues as we work to better understand the experiences and perspectives of our community members, our children, and ourselves.

“We keep learning, doing our best, leaving something out, making mistakes, doing it better next time. It is a practice, not an identity - and it is best done in collaboration with others.” - Paul Kivel
