

SOUTH CAROLINA
Yolande Anderson

Yolandé Anderson was appointed the Commissioner Designee for South Carolina by Commissioner Molly Spearman on September 15, 2016.

Ms. Anderson received a BA in Sociology from the University of South Carolina and a dual MA in Human Resources from Webster University. She serves as Director for the Office of Family and Community Engagement at the South Carolina Department of Education (SCDE).

Prior to joining the SCDE, Ms. Anderson served in the nonprofit community as program manager of various educational and community outreach programs. She has led several initiatives for after school/expanded learning efforts, family and community engagement projects, and other deserving programs that have focused on increasing the success of students. Most recently, Ms. Anderson served as an Academic Dean at a local college. During her tenure at the College, Ms. Anderson had the opportunity to work with military students and families, as the campus' Certifying Official.

Ms. Anderson is married to Broderick Anderson, Sr., and they have three children, Diondre Jamal (DJ), Broderick, Jr. (BJ), and Charles John (CJ).
