

Work is proceeding on the new undergraduate library at 600 N. Park Street on the University of Wisconsin campus. The $7 million structure will be called the Helen C. White Library in memory of the university's late distinguished professor of English. The name was authorized last Friday by the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents. (Staff photo by Carmie A. Thompson)

50 Per Cent Increase Noted

32 Black Teachers Will Join School System Here

MATT POMMER
(Of The Capital Times Staff)

The number of black teachers in the Madison school system will increase by more than 50 per cent next year, school officials indicated today.

Contracts have been awarded to 32 blacks for the 1970-71 school year, according to William Gardner, assistant personnel director.

Last year 21 blacks were employed among the 1,700 professional teachers. Two of those resigned because their husbands accepted jobs outside Madison, according to school officials.

Kennedy Elementary School, Lincoln Junior High, and Memorial High each have contracts with two teachers among the 13 new black teachers.

Four of the 13 new contract signees will teach in the elementary division including one man at the third grade level.

Gardner said Madison's reputation and recent recruiting trips to black colleges apparently were key ingredients in the increased number of black teachers.

"The word is getting around that Madison is interested in black teachers," said Gardner.

One couple, both teachers, are moving from Gary, Ind., where they taught for several years, he indicated. Gary was the site of an extended teachers' strike during the last school year.

Gardner was able to recruit a highly-rated husband and wife team from Anderson, Ind., where the husband was in line to be a school principal.

The University of Wisconsin also is a recruiting attraction. The wife of former pro football player Greg Smith will be teaching at Memorial High. Buchanan is a former dean of students at Jackson State.

Most of the teachers have had some teaching experience. Gardner indicated. The school board has liberalized rules for granting credit for past experience in placing all teachers on the salary schedule.

SIECUS Leader Talks at U.

Says Parents' Fright Requires Sex Education

A child is ready for sex education when he asks a question in a U.S. Office of Education-sponsored institute on "The Calderone, executive director of Young Adult in Conflict" at the SIECUS (Sex Information and Education Council of the U.S.)

stated Tuesday.

"The problem is that the first time the child asks a question the parents are so caught unaware and so frightened by the whole thing that they unconsciously shut it off," she declared. "Then the child learns that this is something he cannot ask questions about."

Dr. Calderone addressed a

See 1,000 Here In High School Summer Session

Summer high school enrollment is expected to top 1,000 this summer, according to school board officials.

Registration, which ends at noon Thursday, is being handled at East High School. Some courses such as personal typing, art classes and home economics classes at West already are filled.

More than 40 students, most of them seventh graders, have been turned away from the typing courses, according to Al Colucci, summer school principal.

Classes are being held at East and West High schools, although no shop courses are offered at East because of renovation work at the school. Colucci reported heavy enrollments in the shop courses this summer.

Hurt as Car Leaves Road

Dudley D. Snyder, 24, of 2806 Milwaukee St., was injured about 6:30 p.m. Tuesday when his car left Highway 19, west of Twin Lane Road near Sun Prairie, and rolled over.

Snyder suffered head and chest contusions. He was taken by Dane County ambulance to a local Road Mall, Miami Beach, Fla. Madison General Hospital for treatment. The vehicle went off the road on a curve, struck a utility pole, and then rolled over, officers said.

Private Reports

Budget Request Secrecy Called Valid by Conrad

City Atty. Edwin Conrad ruled today that the Mayor William Dyke's "top secret" label on city department budget requests for 1971 was valid unless the City Council voted to change the executive budget system which went into effect in 1967.

However, Conrad's opinion specifically ruled against the justification first given by City Administrator Robert Corcoran.

Corcoran had said the top secret label was justified because old Klubertanz, 17th Ward, subsequently, they couldn't have heads of people who have a commitment to alleviate poverty," Berkan charged.

THE CAPITAL TIMES

★★★

MADISON, WIS., Wednesday, June 17, 1970

45

Mayor Leaves for Denver Without Acting on Measure

Lack of Dyke Signature Lets Go-Go Shows Go On

By TOM FOLEY
(Of The Capital Times Staff)

Despite an avowed urgent intent to clean up the city's go-go joints, Mayor William Dyke left on a combined business-vacation trip last Wednesday without signing the city's new go-go curfew ordinance.

The ordinance does not become effective until the mayor signs it and it is published in a local newspaper. Publication normally takes four days after the mayor's signature, a spokesman in the City Clerk's office said today.

The ordinance was passed by the City Council on Wednesday, June 3. Dyke was in his office the following week, and did not leave the city until June 11.

The City Clerk's office said today that the mayor had not yet asked to have the ordinance sent to his office for signature. In the Denver, Colo., area with his family, Dyke is attending the National Conference of Mayors, which began Saturday and finishes today.

Dyke is expected to return to Madison on Monday. Prompt action on his part would still delay the ordinance from being enforceable until late next week.

Meanwhile, topless dancing is reportedly continuing in the city's go-go establishments.

In a letter to Mayor Dyke dated June 11, Atty. David Loeffler said his clients, Dangle Lounge proprietors Al and Tom Reichenberger, "will comply with the new ordinance when it becomes law."

Loeffler also said the Dangle would comply with the curfew ordered by the ordinance, once it is signed by the mayor and published, "until the federal judicial process determines that (the ordinance) is unconstitutional on its face."

All city aldermen have been subpoenaed to appear in the Dangle's federal court action seeking to have enforcement of the ordinance stayed by a court injunction.

However, the court appearances are slated for next Tuesday, which would be well in advance of the earliest possible date when the ordinance could go into effect.

On June 9, the council approved a liquor licenses for all 216 still on the job give the go-go establishments a retention rate of 67.5 per cent. "This is a little above the national average," Beach said.

The disadvantaged persons program was employed by 60 of the 105 Madison area firms which pledged to hire under the NAB

Ousted Official Protests

Delay Adams Welfare Dismissal Hearing

A hearing that had been scheduled for Thursday to meet later this month and whether Adams County Welfare Director William Berkan was hearing in Madison. He said the welfare director during his 14 day, but Berkan contends this was because his department had a huge backlog of cases hearing scheduled for June 18 that had not been taken care of before the State Personnel Board had been postponed.

The meeting's postponement brought a sharp reply from Berkan who had been accused of soon after he took over the post. Welfare costs went up considerably during his 14 day, but Berkan contends this was because his department had a huge backlog of cases hearing scheduled for June 18 that had not been taken care of before the State Personnel Board had been postponed.

"I have been notified that the had a huge backlog of cases hearing scheduled for June 18 that had not been taken care of before the State Personnel Board had been postponed," Berkan said. "Such a postpone Board fired him on May 13, means that the hearing Berkan then went to the State will not be held within the state Personnel Board on May 14 and torily required 30 days."

"This delay in the hearing of the matter, the board has the power to order his reinstatement should it decide he was unjustly dismissed," Berkan said and he and his attorneys had subpoenaed 20 witnesses for the June 18 hearing at the cost of $5 each.

"All this money comes out of my pocket," he stated. "Adams County has plenty of money to pay the cost of the hearing, but I don't."

This action is not surprising collected by the student court must be placed in the state's general fund, but the regents have often found embarrassing. Democrat stated in his letter that he was refusing to return the questionnaire.

ications from Police Chief Wilbur Emery that police had several complaints about violations of liquor laws there.

But at the urging of Third-Ward Ald. William Hall Tuesday night, the council appeared headed toward a reversal of its previous stand against the Lobby. Hall moved that the Lobby be given a 12 to 6 to accept the application, and set a July 7 hearing

Ruling in Charmany Farms Case

Court Says UW Must Pay School Tax On Ag Center

By DAVE ZWEFFEL
(Of The Capital Times Staff)

Circuit Court Judge Richard Bardwell ruled today that the University of Wisconsin must pay Madison school taxes on its Charmany Farms Research Center located on the city's West Side.

Bardwell turned down a petition from the U. W. Board of Regents that asked the court to stop the city from assessing the research center for school tax purposes.

The research center is under the control of the U. W. College of Agriculture and is located on 14 acres of land within the 152-acre farm on Mineral Point Rd. The tax is limited to school taxes under the statute, which means the property is still exempt from regular city and county levies.

Bardwell's decision means the school budget.

69 Firms Fulfill Pledge

216 Disadvantaged Find Jobs Here Through NAB

The National Alliance of Businessmen has exceeded its first year goal in Madison by helping place 216 disadvantaged persons in permanent, full-time jobs, P. Goff Beach, NAB metro chairman, has announced.

"Our goal was to find 200 jobs for disadvantaged adults by June 30, and we met that objective about a month ahead of schedule,"

Madison area employers participating in the NAB program increased in the retail trade and hired 320 disadvantaged persons; service industries, and it was in these areas that most of the disadvantaged were employed.

"A substantial number of persons placed through the NAB program were employed by smaller firms who hired one to five people," he said. "These firms operate almost totally in Madison, and, therefore, have not been hit too hard by the national economic decline."

The disadvantaged persons program was employed by 60 of the 105 Madison area firms which pledged to hire under the NAB

Ousted Official Protests

Delay Adams Welfare Dismissal Hearing

A hearing that had been scheduled for Thursday to meet later this month and whether Adams County Welfare Director William Berkan was hearing in Madison. He said the welfare director during his 14 day, but Berkan contends this was because his department had a huge backlog of cases hearing scheduled for June 18 that had not been taken care of before the State Personnel Board had been postponed.

The meeting's postponement brought a sharp reply from Berkan who had been accused of soon after he took over the post. Welfare costs went up considerably during his 14 day, but Berkan contends this was because his department had a huge backlog of cases hearing scheduled for June 18 that had not been taken care of before the State Personnel Board had been postponed.

"I have been notified that the had a huge backlog of cases hearing scheduled for June 18 that had not been taken care of before the State Personnel Board had been postponed," Berkan said. "Such a postpone Board fired him on May 13, means that the hearing Berkan then went to the State will not be held within the state Personnel Board on May 14 and torily required 30 days."

"This delay in the hearing of the matter, the board has the power to order his reinstatement should it decide he was unjustly dismissed," Berkan said and he and his attorneys had subpoenaed 20 witnesses for the June 18 hearing at the cost of $5 each.

"All this money comes out of my pocket," he stated. "Adams County has plenty of money to pay the cost of the hearing, but I don't."

This action is not surprising collected by the student court must be placed in the state's general fund, but the regents have often found embarrassing. Democrat stated in his letter that he was refusing to return the questionnaire.

Since existing licenses all expired June 30, this would mean that the Lobby could not sell liquor until the end of June.

The council met between the end of June and the date when its new license gets approved by the council and the mayor.

Ruling in Charmany Farms Case

Court Says UW Must Pay School Tax On Ag Center

By DAVE ZWEFFEL
(Of The Capital Times Staff)

Circuit Court Judge Richard Bardwell ruled today that the University of Wisconsin must pay Madison school taxes on its Charmany Farms Research Center located on the city's West Side.

Bardwell turned down a petition from the U. W. Board of Regents that asked the court to stop the city from assessing the research center for school tax purposes.

The research center is under the control of the U. W. College of Agriculture and is located on 14 acres of land within the 152-acre farm on Mineral Point Rd. The tax is limited to school taxes under the statute, which means the property is still exempt from regular city and county levies.

Bardwell's decision means the school budget.

69 Firms Fulfill Pledge

216 Disadvantaged Find Jobs Here Through NAB

The National Alliance of Businessmen has exceeded its first year goal in Madison by helping place 216 disadvantaged persons in permanent, full-time jobs, P. Goff Beach, NAB metro chairman, has announced.

"Our goal was to find 200 jobs for disadvantaged adults by June 30, and we met that objective about a month ahead of schedule,"

Madison area employers participating in the NAB program increased in the retail trade and hired 320 disadvantaged persons; service industries, and it was in these areas that most of the disadvantaged were employed.

"A substantial number of persons placed through the NAB program were employed by smaller firms who hired one to five people," he said. "These firms operate almost totally in Madison, and, therefore, have not been hit too hard by the national economic decline."

The disadvantaged persons program was employed by 60 of the 105 Madison area firms which pledged to hire under the NAB

Ousted Official Protests

Delay Adams Welfare Dismissal Hearing

A hearing that had been scheduled for Thursday to meet later this month and whether Adams County Welfare Director William Berkan was hearing in Madison. He said the welfare director during his 14 day, but Berkan contends this was because his department had a huge backlog of cases hearing scheduled for June 18 that had not been taken care of before the State Personnel Board had been postponed.

The meeting's postponement brought a sharp reply from Berkan who had been accused of soon after he took over the post. Welfare costs went up considerably during his 14 day, but Berkan contends this was because his department had a huge backlog of cases hearing scheduled for June 18 that had not been taken care of before the State Personnel Board had been postponed.

"I have been notified that the had a huge backlog of cases hearing scheduled for June 18 that had not been taken care of before the State Personnel Board had been postponed," Berkan said. "Such a postpone Board fired him on May 13, means that the hearing Berkan then went to the State will not be held within the state Personnel Board on May 14 and torily required 30 days."

"This delay in the hearing of the matter, the board has the power to order his reinstatement should it decide he was unjustly dismissed," Berkan said and he and his attorneys had subpoenaed 20 witnesses for the June 18 hearing at the cost of $5 each.

"All this money comes out of my pocket," he stated. "Adams County has plenty of money to pay the cost of the hearing, but I don't."

This action is not surprising collected by the student court must be placed in the state's general fund, but the regents have often found embarrassing. Democrat stated in his letter that he was refusing to return the questionnaire.

Running for Sheriff

Bobby Joe Twangs New Key in Politics

By JIM HOUGAN
(Of The Capital Times Staff)

Bobby Joe Burbridge, a non-stop talker with a mountain-tweaver's twang, announced his candidacy for Dane County Sheriff today on the sidewalk in front of the Midland Street Co-op.

Burbridge, an independent candidate, declared that "Law enforcement has come to mean protecting property and property rights, and not the personal rights of the average citizen. The Sheriff's Department is just one example of a government no longer a servant of its people."

Complaining that the public doesn't know how its tax dollars are being spent, Burbridge denounced the use of the informer system as destructive of youths' lives, and sharply questioned inflated publicity about "so-called big drug busts."

The informer system and the arrest of youths "for smoking something that grows wild all over the country... makes me sick," Burbridge commented.

Alluding to "fat deputies," the bearded ex-convict promised to reform, or abolish as superfluous, the use of special investigators to apprehend those guilty of non-support.

If elected, Burbridge promised he would not allow the Sheriff's Department "to be used (as it has in the past) by the rich landlord to evict anybody, court order or no court order, before a complete investigation of the eviction" is instituted by the Sheriff.

Further, the Sheriff's Department will no longer be

Breach of Trust

Nager Lashes Move To Hike Lawmaker Pay

State Rep. Edward Nager today told the Legislature that he was "not taking into consideration" the blatant refusal of the state legislators to seek any meaningful solution to the problems facing our which would justify any pay cities, it is unthinkable that a raise for state legislators," pay raise for the Legislature Nager told the council in a letter. "To raise their salaries would be a breach of trust which we owe to the people of Wisconsin."

The council has been meeting to discuss the possibility of recommending another pay hike for the 133 state representatives and senators. The council was created by the Legislature to review salaries periodically. It is so set up so the legislators themselves don't have to vote council that all legislators fill out a questionnaire concerning their salaries. The Madison Democrat stated in his letter that he was refusing to return the questionnaire.

"This is one area where we can show the taxpayer that we are really concerned about the steadily mounting tax burden he is carrying and about economy in government and I, therefore, strongly urge that any proposal to increase legislative salaries be rejected," Nager added.

Nager's letter was written in response to a request from the council that all legislators fill out a questionnaire concerning their salaries. The Madison Democrat stated in his letter that he was refusing to return the questionnaire.

In view of the unchecked inflation and increasing unemployment, the questionnaire.

Bobby Joe Burbridge

used as a collector of debts by anyone," Burbridge urged revision of the worthless check law, asserting that "in nine times out of 10 the bad check comes from an alcoholic, a sick man."

Declaring his support for Madison's student community, Burbridge announced that he would "not protect any business which brings trouble down on itself by exploiting the students."

Specifically mentioning State Street, a frequent target of rock-throwing malcontents, Burbridge promised he would not use the Sheriff's Department to suppress "trashing" unless and until the merchants reduce their profit margins.

Asked if he thought the deputies would go along with his program, Burbridge answered affirmatively. "They can be replaced, you know."

Prof. Seireg Receives Award In Engineering

Ali A. Seireg, professor of mechanical engineering at the University of Wisconsin, will receive the $1,000 George Westinghouse Award at the annual meeting of the American Society for Engineering Education at Ohio State University June 25.

The award is made to a young engineering teacher of outstanding ability. Prof. Seireg has developed special courses in mechanical design with emphasis on integrated design projects.

Dean Kurt F. Wendt, of the U.W. College of Engineering, will receive an honorary membership for eminent service to mankind in engineering education.

Y-GOP Re-elects Loniello, Names Board Officers

Nick Loniello, 1142 Emerald St., was re-elected chairman of the Dane County Young Republicans recently.

Other members of the executive board are Barb Wood, vice chairman; Pam Anderson, secretary; Kris Smith, treasurer; Muriel Coleman, Joe Cerniglia, Larry Olson, and Colleen Henry.

Actions of Rep. Robert Kas tenmeier (D-Watertown) were attacked, and the group agreed to work for the replacement of Rep. Edward Nager (D-Madison), Loniello reported.

Secretaries Unit

The Madison chapter of the National Secretaries Association will install officers at a meeting at the Park Motor Inn at 5:30 p.m. Thursday.