The Fire Commission's report on the strike, which ended March 23, has "set the stage for the commission to direct the Police and Fire Commission to exercise its statutory disciplinary powers," according to Acting Chief Durkin. "It is imperative that the commission take action to prevent a recurrence of this situation," he said.

The meeting, called by Ritchie, was attended by representatives of the Police and Fire Commissions, the School Board, the City Council, and the City Administrator.

Ritchie requested that the commission consider the following recommendations:

1. The commission should consider the possibility of amending the city's charter to allow for a more effective method of handling labor disputes.
2. The commission should consider the possibility of creating a mediation panel to handle labor disputes.
3. The commission should consider the possibility of creating a grievance procedure to handle labor disputes.
4. The commission should consider the possibility of creating a disciplinary panel to handle labor disputes.

Teacher Pay Hikes Pose Suburban School Crisis

By MATT PEDEN

The Milwaukee suburban school districts, including the West Allis and Wisconsin Heights districts, are considering pay hikes for their teachers, according to a survey of the districts by the West Allis Chamber of Commerce.

The districts are considering pay hikes of 5% to 10% for their teachers, according to the survey.

The survey was conducted by the West Allis Chamber of Commerce and the West Allis School District.
