Defends Test Ban Treaty

USSR LASHES CHINESE REDS

Rusk, in Russia, Expresses Hope Over Test Ban

MOSCOW (AP)—The Big Three foreign ministers voiced hopes Saturday that the nuclear test ban treaty they are signing Monday will lead to bigger East-West agreements.

United States Secretary of State Dean Rusk said on his arrival from Washington the government and people of the U. S. are determined to follow up the signing with other steps to ensure peace.

Dane County Net Income Tops Average

(Special To The State Journal)

NEW YORK — A detailed report on business activity in the United States, covering all parts of the country, stamps Dane county as a vigorous, expanding market, with family earnings and expenditures above average.

Significant gains were recorded in the county trading area in the past year.

The figures bearing this out are contained in Sales Management's annual copyrighted "Survey of Buying Power," just released.

Net Income Up

They show that residents had a net income in 1962, after payment of their personal taxes, of $54,399,000, which compares favorably with the prior year's $50,573,000.

The amount is impressive, especially because it was reached in a year that was marked by growing unemployment and by a hesitant first quarter.

What this income was equivalent to, on a family basis, was determined by dividing the dollar amount by the number of local households. It came to $7,941 per household.

That was more than was earned by people living in most sections of the U. S. They averaged $6,874 per household. In the east North Central states the average was $7,239.

Business Good

With more money available to them than before, they spent more freely. As a consequence, business was good for most retailers in Dane county.

The report shows that their sales volume for the year reached

Welcomed by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at Moscow's Vnukovo airport, Rusk said "we come here with hope and with the resolve to try to make this treaty a turning point in the affairs of mankind."

No Formal Speech
Gromyko made no formal speech welcome. And his attitude was more restrained than Rusk's. But he told newsmen later "it would (emphasizing that word) be good if this could be the starting point for big events."

"I hope it will be," he said. British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, whose jet airliner arrived 20 minutes after Rusk's U. S. Air Force jet passenger plane, contributed the view of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government.

"We have made a good beginning," he said. "And from here we hope to go on to other agreements between Russia and our countries. . . We look forward to several days of good and constructive work together."

Shake Hands Warmly

Gromyko greeted both Rusk and Home effusively.

The Russian and the U. S. secretary smiled and pumped each other's hands warmly at the foot of the plane ramp. They swapped jokes and threw back their heads in laughter.

Rusk left later for Spassko house, the official residence of Ambassador Foy D. Kohler, where he will live in the week ahead.

Gromyko stayed to receive Home.

Three times Home and Gromyko shook hands at the request of photographers — British, American, and Russian.

NFO Seems Prepared To Take Milk Action

By ROBERT C. BJORKLUND
(State Journal Farm Editor)

The National Farmers Organization (NFO) surged back into the news last week when a Madison incident raised the possibility of a milk withholding action in the near future.

Are NFO members ready for such an action? They certainly are.

At least that's the way they talked in Madison when they came from a wide area of southern Wisconsin to protest an Assembly resolution regarding the legality of certain acts associated with a withholding action on milk.

The main concern of the organization right now is to get as many master contracts as possible signed with dairy processors — both cooperative and privately owned.

And while they are doing that, they are going to make county-by-county surveys of all dairy farmers to find out how much milk they produce, where it's marketed, and whether or not the non-member is willing to withhold his milk from the market if a withholding action is called.

The surveys are expected to take two weeks, and then this situation is expected to toughen. It all depends on whether or not the processors keep signing NFO contracts. The NFO members claim that plants are being signed at the rate of 20 a week.

"If they keep doing that, then we don't need a milk withholding action," noted Robert Green, Rt. 2, Brodhead.

No one outside of the NFO knows how many of those contracts are signed. There are eight confirmed signings in Wisconsin, but members and leaders both indicate that it is a higher total now.

One of the main concerns over the master contracts is that it will give the NFO an outlet for its milk if a withholding action is called. A plant with a contract will be supplied during a holding action.

Aim at Chicago

If these signed plants control 60 per cent of the fluid milk supplies in a 10-state area of the Midwest, the NFO could choose to enforce its contract — and gain stated higher prices for milk — in 30 days.

But the NFO leaders indicate that they are not going to follow this procedure. Instead, they plan a quick withholding action in order to get a higher price on the Chicago market.

A higher price there would strengthen prices on surrounding markets, which also would be subject to the milk withholding action.

This higher price would be obtained by renegotiating the superpool agreement — an agreement between producers and dealers that pays a price over the market pool price.

FDC Negotiated

In the Madison market, for instance, the superpool price is the difference between the federal order price $3.51 on Class One (bottled) milk and $4.

In the past these superpool

Fire Destroys Mill in Heart of Evansville

EVANSVILLE — A spectacular fire in the heart of Evansville Saturday night destroyed the Green Bros. building housing feed mill and grain warehouse.

Evansville and Brooklyn fire companies confined the blaze to the huge building, as flames reaching heights of 35 feet were visible for miles.

No injuries were reported in the blaze. The cause was undetermined late Saturday night. The fire companies fought the fire until about midnight.

The mill and warehouse on Evansville's Main st. was one of the oldest buildings in the town, and was a landmark.

The building contained 6,000 bushels of soybeans belonging to the Commodity Credit Corp., a Federal corporation of which Green Bros. is a member, and 10,000 bushels of shell corn belonging to Green Bros.

No damage estimate was immediately available, according to Ben P. Green, one of the owners. He said the grain was fully insured, and the building partially insured.

The building was 65 by 100 feet and was located at 207 E. Main st. It was necessary to stop a North Western Railway passenger train from Madison to Chicago at about 8 p.m., because fire hoses were stretched across the tracks.

State Entries Fail in Soap Box Derby

AKRON — Wisconsin entries Saturday failed to reach the final championship race of the 26th All-American Soap Box Derby at Akron, O.

The new champ is Harold Conrad, 12, Duluth, Minn., who defeated two Georgia boys in the championship heat to win a $7,500 college scholarship prize.

Tom Meyers, 14, Beloit; and Erik Jensen, Sheboygan, were nosed out for a try at the top prize in final elimination races.

Fair Weather Seen for Today, Tonight

Fair weather is predicted for today and tonight, with high temperatures in the 80s, according to the Weather Bureau at Municipal airport.

Soviets Launch Double Assault Against Peking

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Saturday accused Communist China of taking a position tantamount to advocating thermonuclear war in which "others" would pay with their lives.

Moscow also charged that Peking was "emasculating" the Communist movement.

It criticized China's refusal to sign the partial nuclear test ban agreement reached in Moscow by Britain, the United States, and the Soviet Union.

The double attack was published in the Soviet party newspaper Pravda and in a government statement by the official Tass news agency.

Mistaken Belief
Tass said the Chinese position on the test ban was "tantamount to actual connivance with those who advocate world thermonuclear war."

Pravda said the Chinese mistakenly believe "the center of the world revolutionary movement is where uprisings are the most numerous and where weapons are used the more often."

The government statement on testing said: "Those who today oppose the prohibition of nuclear tests, whatever verbal contrivances they may resort to, show themselves to be opponents of the line of relaxing international tension and of undermining the forces of aggression and war."

Disregard of Interests
"The test ban treaty can be objected to only by people who stand aside from the struggle of the peoples against nuclear war and who cover up with a flashy phrase about the most radical disarmament measures their lack of readiness or desire to achieve disarmament."

"Only disregard of the vital interests of the peoples who have long been demanding an end to nuclear testing could suggest such an interpretation of the aims and meaning of the treaty as the Chinese government seeks to give in its statement."

Pravda concentrated on China's militant policy of war and revolution to spread communism. "This interpretation by the CPC (Chinese Communist party) leads

Henry Ford, Wife Agree to Separation

DETROIT (AP) — Henry Ford II, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., and his wife, Anne, have separated after 23 years of marriage. The separation of the grandson of the original Henry Ford, founder of a great automobile empire, and the former New York society girl was announced Saturday by family counsel.

HENRY FORD MRS. ANNE FORD

The separation has been entered into without court action, it was explained.

Terse Statement
The Detroit law firm of Rodman, Longley, Bogle, Armstrong, and Dahling announced the separation in a terse statement.

Pierre V. Heffler, representative of the law firm, said in a typewritten note he had been authorized by the Fords to make the following statements:

"Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford II have decided upon a legal separation. They have entered into the usual form of separation agreement."

Have Two Daughters

The Negro in Madison

Some Strive To Avoid 'Ghetto'

What is the status of the Negro in Madison? Wisconsin State Journal reporters were assigned to get the facts for the information of our readers. Another article, devoted to the housing problem, follows:

There is a small group of Negroes in Madison who are determined that they are not going to bring up their families in what they term a "ghetto," an all-Negro district.

At least five of them have rented, or bought, homes in formerly all-white neighborhoods.

A Wisconsin State Journal reporter has spent hours talking with these Negroes and white people in the neighborhoods in which they live.

None of dozens of people interviewed denied that the Negro had a right in any individual neighborhood. There had been no real problems in connection with moving in, from the standpoint of neighborhood demonstrations.

Some welcomed the Negro. Some ignored him. Some felt their property values had been lowered. Some said not. Most agreed that, while they would not object to a single Negro family moving in, they wouldn't want a second to move in. Not right away.

The answer, time after time, was that things were working out well. There were no problems. The Negroes were good neighbors.

The Negroes generally found their own homes, with no help from real estate people. They found, they say, from bitter experience that the real estate man is a main bar from home ownership in integrated communities. He won't show them homes in white areas.

On Sheldon st. is Odell Taliaferro. He's old Madison, as far as Negroes are concerned. He and his wife were rooted out of the Triangle. They spent weeks and months looking for a house. They saw a "For Sale" sign in front of the home they now occupy.

Mrs. Taliaferro, approached the owner, a school principal. He was willing to sell. Neighbors heard, and there were some protests to the owner. He offered Taliaferro a chance to back out. Taliaferro refused.

He and his wife and mother-in-law moved in. He was a little worried for a time, but there were no repercussions.

"Before we moved in, some of the neighbors gave a welcoming party for my wife," he says. "Three of the women were from the South."

Taliaferro, a past president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and, connected with the chemistry department, is a member of the University

Day in History

(By United Press International)
Today is Sunday, Aug. 4, the 316th day of 1963, with 149 to follow. Those born today include Sir Harry Lauder, Scottish ballad singer, in 1870. On this day in history: In 1735, freedom of the press was established when John Peter Zenger, publisher of a New York newspaper, was acquitted of libel charges. In 1914, England declared war on Germany, and the United States announced its neutrality. In 1916, the U.S. bought the Virgin Islands from Denmark for $25 million. In 1953, 11 U.S. Air Force fliers were released after they had been held by Red China for more than 2 1/2 years.

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Former President Theodore Roosevelt said, "No man is justified in doing evil on the ground of expediency."

Question of the Week

Question: What is the difference in meaning between "Fair," "Partly Cloudy," and "Mostly Cloudy" when given in official weather forecast?

Answer: "Fair" weather in a forecast means the skies are expected to have no more than two-tenths cloud cover during most of the forecast period. Forecast periods in the Madison area are for 12 hours.

"Partly Cloudy" means the sky will be covered three to eight-tenths clouds.

"Mostly Cloudy" means the sky will be cloud-covered with eight-tenths or more.

The definitions are based upon forecast terminology given in the official Weather Bureau manual.

CONELRAD Warning Plan Fades Into History Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP)—CONELRAD at 640 and 1240 on the radio dial fades into broadcast history at midnight tonight, an untold child of the nuclear age.

In its place comes what is means of transmitting vital information to the American public in the event of enemy attack. It's called the Emergency Broadcast System and it opens up the entire AM radio band for emergency communications.

12 Years Ago
CONELRAD was created 12 years ago as a control on electromagnetic radiation — that's what "CONELRAD" stands for — to deny the use of radio transmitters as a navigational aid to enemy aircraft.

The Defense Department decided last year that the precaution no longer is necessary because of modern navigational devices. So a new system was devised.

On receiving a national alert, AM stations holding emergency action authorizations will begin ers obscure, emasculates the main thing, the proletarian socialist foundation of the center of the revolutionary process," the newspaper said.

The true leadership of the world Communist movement, Pravda said, was in the Soviet Union and the bloc of Socialist nations which adhere to its policies.

Moreover, Pravda said, the Chinese are wrong in thinking that the "main contradictions" of the modern world lie between "U.S. imperialists" and the "oppressed peoples" rather than between "socialism and imperialism."

Through this error the Chinese are led to believe "one can launch any gamble against U.S. imperialism under the cover of the noble revolutionary slogan of just wars."

Thus, Pravda said, the Chinese leadership believes the "possibility of nuclear war between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S. is nothing but an invention of 'cowardly latter-day revisionists' — a favorite Peking term for the Kremlin leadership.

In another development the journal Literary Gazette, climaxing a two-week-old denunciation of Communist China in the Soviet press, declared:

"He is mistaken who thinks that for the sake of unity with the Chinese Communist party our party is ready to pay by abandoning its principles.

"This is too high a price. This price means the future—because in the long run it's question of two opposite points of view with regard to the future of communism."

3 in Illinois Family Killed in Auto Crash

JANESVILLE — Three members of an Illinois family were killed and two of their children were injured Saturday morning in a three-car crash near the intersection of Interstate 90 and Highway 26 east of here.

The accident happened when a southbound automobile went out of control, crossed a 60-foot grass median, and smashed into a 1960 station wagon driven by Einar Reiser, 36, of Lombard, Ill.

Son Critical
Dead on arrival at Janesville Mercy hospital were Mr. Reiser, his wife, Lora Lee, and their son, Paul, 4. Another son, Philip, 8, was listed in "very critical" condition at the hospital. A daughter, Sheri, 10, was put under observation.

The accident happened at 9:05 a.m. when a southbound car driven by Helen Roehl, 51, of Elmhurst, Ill., tried to pass an automobile driven by Richard Nickerson, Columbus.

Rock county sheriff's officials said that Nickerson apparently changed lanes and sideswiped Mrs. Roehl's car.

Nickerson's car then crossed the median and hit the Reiser vehicle. Both cars plunged down a 50-foot embankment and caught fire.

Treated for Shock
Nickerson was hospitalized and treated for shock. His wife, Carol Ann, 24, and their 15-month-old baby also were hospitalized.

Mr. Reiser's body was found lying near the edge of the highway, and Paul also was thrown from the car and was found in the grass nearby.

Mrs. Roehl and a passenger in the car, Andrew Fuhrman, Lombard, Ill., were not injured.

Ambulances from the Rock county traffic patrol, Janesville, and from the 33rd Artillery Division, Chicago, which was moving to Camp McCoy, transported the injured to the hospital.

CUNA Expected To Name Director

A new managing director of the Credit Union National Assn. (CUNA) may be appointed at a week-long, nation-wide CUNA session set to start today in the Park Motor Inn.

Acting director at association headquarters, 1617 Sherman ave., is Orrin Slupe, 434 S. Owen dr. He will be in the running for the appointment, expected to be announced Friday, said CUNA.

About 100 officers are scheduled to attend. Topics will include a possible new national structure, and programs for legislation, organization, and member education.

Negroes Strive To Avoid 'Ghetto'

of Wisconsin faculty. His house is in contemporary style. The yard is well kept.

One of his neighbors across the street is a white NAACP member, who welcomed him. Others defend the right of a Negro to live anywhere he pleases, so long as he fits the neighborhood. Farther down the block is a woman from Missouri. Her philosophy is that Negroes have a right to buy where they please, but they can't expect fraternization.

Turn Down Invitations
"I'll say hello when we meet, and be polite," she said, "but I'll turn down any invitations to their home, polite, too."

For a time, she was a bar maid in the South, she said, and they charged Negroes double for drinks because the house policy was to break the glass once it had been used.

Across the street lives Verne Kaub, too. He is on the conservative side. He and Taliaferro have arguments. But friendly ones.

On Troy dr. are Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Forbes. They came from Canada, and had trouble trying to buy a house. Home owners and real estate brokers backed off when they learned they were Negro.

No Open Unpleasantness
Then they were able to rent a house on Troy dr. from a real estate man, Patrick J. Lucey, who'd taken the house on a trade. There'd been a Negro trying to buy the house earlier. Petitions had gone around the neighborhood, and the deal fell through. But there was no open unpleasantness when the Forbes' moved in.

Forbes has a master's degree. He flew with the Royal Canadian Air Force and is assistant director of organization, for Credit Union National Assn. (CUNA), and he makes about $10,000 a year.

"We'd never had trouble in Canada," says Mrs. Forbes, "and we couldn't believe we'd have trouble finding a house. Here I stayed inside most of the first year, but the children had to go out to school. That was the hardest part."

Several times, when she felt her children were being treated unfairly, she sailed out to do battle.

Lost Temper
"I lost my temper once," she said, with a quick smile. "If they call me the 'Witch of Troy dr.' that'd be why. But . . . nobody's bothering my children."

A woman across the street says, "You add up everything good in a neighbor, and Mrs. Forbes is at the head of the list."

The end of the block is the daughter of one of Madison's old families, Irish, and secure in her position in the community.

"Mrs. Forbes is stimulating," she says. "We're good friends. And she's sensible. Our kids play together. This place is like Grand Central station. As long as they behave, fine. Out of line, off they go, black or white."

I Just Ignore Her
A closer neighbor whose husband works at Oscar Mayer, says, "Trouble? We don't have any. I just ignore her."

Another close neighbor, who has lavished countless hours on his neatly painted house and garden, is worried over falling values of his house due to proximity of a Negro.

"It's probably cost me $1,000 to $1,500," he says. "I wish the city had bought them an area where they could stay by themselves."

On Constitution ave., near Westgate and off Segoe rd., is where Marshall Colston, NAACP president lives. There's a moving van across the street. Is it because of the Coltons?

Coltons Get Along Well

"No," says a woman next door, "the people are moving for other reasons."

The Coltons get along well in the neighborhood, she says. There's no friction. But another neighbor, watching the van, says, "There's no doubt but what our property values are lowered, at least temporarily. If the Negroes prove to be reasonable, though, they'll probably go up again."

"I sure hope another Negro family doesn't move in. It would be too much, too fast."

On Hillcrest ave., just off Midvale blvd., lives another Negro family. He is head of the production department of the photo lab of the University of Wisconsin.

Got House From Friend

He got his house from a white friend who wanted to help Negroes.

The people who used to live across the street asked the former owners to hold up selling to the Negroes 'til they'd had a chance to sell their house. They were worried about deflated values. But the Negroes moved in before the people across the street could sell.

Did it make it hard for the neighbors to sell their house? Apparently not.

"Certainly, we bought this house knowing that Negroes lived across the street," said the new owners of the property. "We'd lived in Stevens Point, and we'd hoped we'd be able to meet a situation like this in a Christian manner. And . . . we did."

Talks Half an Hour

Did they manage to beat down the price, now that there was a Negro across the street?

"I wouldn't say that," said the woman. "This house is about the same as we had in Stevens Point, and we paid about $5,000 more here."

There's a Negro family in Mohawk pk., just off University ave. The Negro asked that his name not be used. He doesn't want to discuss the problems of the Negro. Then he talks for a half hour.

He was rooted out of the Triangle, and lost his home. He'd be damned if he'd move to a Negro ghetto. He determined he'd move into any good neighborhood, for the sake of his children.

"I got this house through a white friend," he said, "not through any real estate man."

Likes White Neighborhood

Though he likes the neighborhood, he's bitter about the politics of City Hall that lost him his house in the Triangle, and bitter for his fellow Negroes who are having trouble finding housing and don't have the good friends in the white race that he has.

In the house beside him, a woman who'd be at home at a Maple Bluff tea comes to the door. The Negro family make fine neighbors, she says firmly. Would they have trouble renting or selling their home now that a Negro has moved next door?

"We're moving to northern Wisconsin where my husband, who is working for his doctor's degree, is going to be principal of a school, so we're renting," she says.

"We rented it to the first person who answered the ad . . . a man with a degree in medicine from the University of Illinois."

"Did he try to beat us down on the rent? No. He settled for the figure we set. No trouble at all."

Civil Rights Leaders Map March Plans

NEW YORK — "Big Six" civil rights leaders Saturday revised upward to 250,000 their estimate of participants in the Aug. 28 "Jobs and Freedom" march on Washington.

A National Council of Churches spokesman said that organization alone would provide 40,000.

Earlier the highest estimate for the march had been about 100,000. Disclosure of the projected increase came in a meeting at which sponsors mapped final plans for the march, intended to be a show of unity in support of President Kennedy's civil rights proposals.

"Big Six" leaders present were Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP); James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE); John Lewis, head of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee; Otis Finley, deputy director of the National Urban League; A. Philip Randolph, president of the Sleeping Car Porters Union, and the Rev. Walter Fauntroy, of the Washington, D.C., Southern Christian Leadership Conference, who represented the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

They heard reports that airlines in some Midwestern cities were putting on extra planes, and that "bus companies and railroads were having trouble filling orders for special trains."

Tentative plans were made for Negroes in Mississippi's delta area to board a special train leaving New Orleans. Farm hands and factory workers from throughout the Deep South would be able to take a special "freedom train" leaving Florida.

The atmosphere of the closed meeting indicated that emphasis had shifted from attempting to raise interest in the march to one of genuine concern over how to accommodate and control the number of people expected.

Wilkins said marchers would begin arriving in Washington as early as 2 a.m. Aug. 28, and should stop coming in around noon. A plan to have march participants converge on at least 50 meeting places was abandoned.

Three Washington members of the march committee presented detailed information on problems that could be expected in controlling "a quarter of a million people."

NFO Seems Set To Take Milk Action

agreements on the Chicago market have been negotiated by the Federated Dairy Cooperatives (FDC), an organization of cooperative dairies that control about 90 per cent of the milk on the market.

Last February, when the Dean Milk Co. did not go along with the superpool agreement signed by other milk dealers, a milk withholding action was threatened by the FDC.

Certain members of the NFO are urging a sizable increase in the price increase sought from the Chicago milk dealers. However, others believe that just a "little bit" of an increase would mean a lot to the NFO cause, because if the price increase were achieved the NFO could say it was responsible for the higher price to farmers.

The calm voice in all the NFO planning is George Tyson, Watertown, a capable spokesman who is a former national director of the organization. He has held a meeting with Fred Nonnenmaker, who represents Chicago milk dealers.

Eastern Markets

Another unreported meeting was held between the Pure Milk Assn. (PMA), major negotiator for the FDC, and the NFO.

The NFO also has checked with Eastern markets to see if milk there could possibly come into the Midwest. New York authorities assured Roland Waters, Elk Mound, an NFO director from Wisconsin, that only 1 per cent of the surplus milk in the New York market is not being consumed there.

NFO members were told that they should not believe that Eastern milk will be shipped into the Midwest if there were a withholding action.

The NFO strategy still indicates that a holding action, if necessary, will come in August. The decision will be made by the national board of directors.

$324,230,000, a gain over the previous year's $293,809,000.

The willingness to buy, shown by consumers, enabled most retail businesses to beat their 1961 totals. Automobiles turned in the outstanding performance. Sales of other durable goods, such as refrigerators, washing machines, and home appliances in general, also boomed.

The comparative standing of communities, in terms of market performance and potential, is brought out in the survey's "quality of market" index. It is based on such factors as number of households, average income, amount spent, and growth rate.

Dane county is given a rating of 109, or 9 per cent better than the national average.

Thus far this year, according to preliminary reports, consumer spending has continued high in most areas. It is not rising as fast, however, as it did last year.

Facts Raps Governor for Fiscal Problems

The budget-tax compromise bill signed into law last week is a stop-gap measure that is "the price that must be paid for electing a Democratic governor whose campaign was based entirely on bare-face demagoguery and gross distortions of facts," the State Republican party newsletter Facts said Saturday.

The newsletter said state fiscal problems still remain to be solved two years from now, and added the prospect of having Gov. John W. Reynolds even discuss the tax problem is discouraging because to do so would entail admitting "the fraud of their favorite promise to give more free services and benefits to everyone."

Facts called for informing the public thoroughly and accurately before November, 1964. "Wisconsin can continue to wallow in the backwash of the financial floundering of the Democrats," it said, or "return to sound and solvent state government under responsible Republican leadership."
