New Stylish Eyes owner pledges excellent eye care

Stylish Eyes recently changed ownership.

New owner Annie Grubbs has worked at Stylish Eyes on and off for over seven years and is committed to providing excellent eye care for the community, she said.

Grubbs has nearly 20 years of experience working in the optical field. After earning an associate's in opticianry from J. Sargaent Reynolds Community College in 2003, she completed a bachelor's in health science at Old Dominion University in 2005. She has been a licensed dispensing optician since 2003.

Grubbs lives in New Kent with her husband and three children. In her free time, she enjoys boating on the Rappahannock River and spending time with her family.

Stylish Eyes founder Patricia Prince thanks all of her loyal customers over the past 32 years for making her business successful, as she worked hard to provide excellent eye care. From the "bottom of my heart, I am thankful for you all," said Prince.

Grubbs indicated there will be no changes in the policies or rules at Stylish Eyes. Prince will continue to work several days a month at Stylish Eyes; to remain in her care, contact Stylish Eyes.
