Stewardship is a Way of Life

On this Solemnity of All Saints' Day, our focus is on the universal call to holiness. The Scripture reading from the Book of Revelation joins together two of the Apostle John's visions of the eternal throne. He sees those who have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. They have lived for others in holy, virtuous lives, earning eternal salvation within God's heavenly Kingdom. For an example, study two modern day saints, St. Maximillian Kolbe and St. Oscar Romero. In St. John's First Letter, he signifies that the faithful are children of God. This extends to all who have cleansed themselves through God's love with the goal of eternal life in heaven, not only canonized saints. In his Gospel, the evangelist St. Matthew tells of Jesus' proclamation of the Beatitudes in His Sermon on the Mount. Like the saints, all faith-filled stewards are called to holiness. In reference to holiness and the family, Archbishop Allen Vigneron stresses: our local Church must commit a major portion of her resources to supporting families and helping them live out their call to holiness (Unleash the Gospel, Guidepost 7). By making the Beatitudes a way of life, these directives will produce peace, joy, and holiness in our lives and in our families.
