

The Pew Quilt Show at Kanawha Church

Our church was proud to host this extraordinary display of quilts—both family heirlooms and contemporary creations—as a FestivALL event June 28-29. We are grateful to Kanawha Valley Quilters for partnering with us. The collection included 87 quilts!

The Committee is especially grateful to the many church volunteers who helped set up and break down the display, and served as hosts and hostesses for the more than 200 visitors during the two-day event.

Many thanks to Steve Payne and Lisa Smith for these pictures. More photos may be viewed on the church's Facebook page.

(Above) Betsy Johnson brought a dress made by Mountain Artisans, a gift from her husband Howard. The Carpenter Star quilt was made by Cassie Barker.

Susan Testman (right), who chaired the planning committee, brought quilts made by her mother and grandmother for display.

Otis Laury (above) brought a variety of very special quilts, most made by his mother, Eva Laury.

A collection of quilts made by Jerry Adkins filled the back portion of the sanctuary.
