

The Child Care Planning Council of Sonoma County invites you to participate in a three-part series focused on the work of recognizing implicit bias, appreciating difference, and cultivating unconditional love...
for yourself and for your diverse community.

Isoke Femi, our guide for this series, has worked with hundreds of groups throughout the United States, supporting them to appreciate and engage difference. Isoke is the Maven of Transformative Learning in GLIDE's Center for Social Justice, co-founder and director of the Todos Institute, and a Sonoma County resident. Isoke co-authored No Boundaries, a manual for intercultural alliance-building, and developed Leading With Soul, a curriculum for cultural leadership.
