

DAVID BIAGI, NOTED ARCHITECT AND UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY SCHOOL OF ARCHITECTURE PROFESSOR, DIES

LEXINGTON, Ky. (Oct. 22, 2019) – David Biagi, an internationally recognized architect and full professor at the University of Kentucky, age 60, died of thyroid cancer early Sunday morning, October 20, 2019, at his home in Todd's Point, Kentucky.

Biagi was the inaugural director of the School of Architecture at the University of Kentucky's College of Design (2003-2016), Interim Dean of the College of Design (2007-2008), and the Director of Studio Louisville, the College's first satellite studio (2017-2019). He earned his Bachelor of Architecture degree at the University of Kentucky in 1982, and his Master of Architecture degree in 1987 from The Ohio State University. After graduate school, Biagi worked for several years in New York City at the acclaimed firms of Eisenman Architects and Gwathmey Siegel Architects where he honed his visionary design skills.

In 1996, Biagi was selected for the "40 Under 40" list (the top 40 architects under the age of 40 in the United States), named once every 10 years, at the Cooper Hewitt Museum in New York. He was a 16-year member and past president of the Kentucky Board of Architects and also served on the National Council of Architectural Registration Board as chair of the education committee, as a juror, and as a representative. In 2014, he received The Ohio State University, College of Engineering, Knowlton School of Architecture, Distinguished Alumni Award. Digital architectural renderings Biagi created while in graduate school were acquired by the Museum of Modern Art in New York in 2019 as an example of early experiments in computation.

He was in private practice with his father, the late J. Quintin Biagi, Sr. and his brother, J. Quintin Biagi, Jr. at Biagi Architects in Shelbyville, Kentucky.

As an educator for nearly three decades in the School of Architecture at the University of Kentucky College of Design, Biagi positively impacted the lives of thousands of students both professionally and personally. In his role as university administrator, his focus was to put his colleagues in a position to succeed while leading with grace, humility, and wisdom.

He is survived by his wife, Tricia, and his two children Sophia and Leo.

Visitation will be 2-8 p.m. Friday, October 25 at Shannon Funeral Home in Shelbyville, Kentucky with a prayer service at 7 p.m. The funeral Mass will be 10 a.m. Saturday, October 26, at St. Aloysius Catholic Church in Pewee Valley, Kentucky with Father Bob Ray officiating and Father John Stoltz as con-celebrant. Burial to follow at Grove Hill Cemetery.

Expressions of sympathy may be made to the Sophia and Leo Biagi Education Fund through Citizens Union Bank, 100 Citizens Blvd., Simpsonville, KY 40067.

Professor David Biagi (1959-2019)

##

COLLEGE OF DESIGN | 112 Pence Hall | Lexington, KY 40506-0041 | design.uky.edu

38°N, 84°W

University of Kentucky