

Sam Queen is the Director of Corporate Communications for the South Carolina Department of Parks, Recreation & Tourism. In her role as agency spokesperson, Sam shapes and delivers the agency's voice and strategic priorities to the public, industry partners, elected officials and the media. She is responsible for creating an engaging internal communications program to connect with the agency's more than 700 employees who work in our 47 state parks and seven welcome centers across the Palmetto State.

Sam is a passionate public servant dedicated to making government more effective, efficient and taxpayer friendly. Before joining the SCPRT team in January 2021, Sam served on the Communications Team at the South Carolina Department of Revenue for six years, helping to develop a robust communications team, reimagine digital taxpayer services, and create a more customer-centric culture.

She received her bachelor's degrees in Communication and Political Science, and her master's degree in public administration, from Virginia Tech.

