Tips to help safeguard your property against high winds and hailstorms

Summer weather can be very unpredictable, with storms and severe weather events that produce strong winds and hail, causing devastating property damage. In 2023, the insured damage for summer storms in the Prairies and Ontario reached $780 million.*

While no business is immune to the impacts of these losses, preventative maintenance coupled with a comprehensive risk management plan can help mitigate damage and minimize business interruptions when severe weather strikes.

To help you be prepared, Federated Insurance has developed these risk management resources outlining the steps you can take to help mitigate risk and prevent costly damage to your business and property.

- Protecting roofs against high winds
- How to prevent hail damage and protect your property
