

From Lathrop Learning Center, Chicago

One of four learning centers, home-based program and six partner sites located in Chicago committed to early childhood education and development.

The week of April 16-20 was the Week of the Young Child, which is an annual celebration hosted by the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC). Childcare centers celebrated early learning, young children, their teachers and families. At the Mary Crane North site, the teachers were intentional when planning a special event allowing the children to learn through music, food, play and more.
