Notice to persons considering seeking a New Jersey Real Estate License

RE: Qualifications for Licensure

Before you make the commitment to enroll in a real estate pre-licensure course, you should be aware of the following:

The law in New Jersey requires all applicants for licensing as a real estate salesperson or broker to possess good character, trustworthiness, honesty and integrity. N.J.S.A. 45:15-9. To enforce this requirement, all applicants for licensure must submit to a criminal history record check. In addition, presuming you successfully complete the course, at the time you take the state license examination you will be asked to provide responses to certain "screening questions". The questions relate to the statutory qualifications to receive a real estate license. Among these are the candidate being over the age of 18 and having a high school diploma or its equivalent on the date of examination. The statutory qualifications also include the absence of any convictions for forgery, burglary, robbery and theft offences other than shoplifting, criminal conspiracy to defraud or other like offenses within the five years preceding the application for licensure. See N.J.S.A.45:15-12.1.

As was noted above the law also provides that an applicant for a real estate license must establish their general good character, honesty, trustworthiness and integrity. Thus, convictions for shoplifting for other offenses or convictions for the offenses specified in N.J.S.A. 45:12-12.1 which occurred more than five years ago, or the loss of a real estate or other professional license for cause may constitute grounds for the denial of a license application under N.J.S.A. 45:15-9. Consequently, the Commission considers the date and nature of all convictions and other indicia of the applicant's character, honesty, trustworthiness and integrity when evaluating an applicant's qualifications for licensure.

The purpose of this Notice is to urge you to consider whether any such incidents in your background may serve to disqualify you from licensure as a real estate salesperson or broker. If you have any questions or doubts about whether you will qualify for licensure you can phone the Commission for guidance at 609 282 7272 ext 50379 between the hours of 8:30 am- 4:30 pm. However; please be advised that in most cases, final conclusions cannot be reached based upon verbal information supplied in a phone call.

Should you pass the exam you will be required to sign a form on which your answers to the screening questions referred to above will appear. By signing that form you will certify to the Commission that those answers are truthful and accurate. THAT FORM IS PART OF YOUR APPLICATION FOR A LICENSE. Providing false information in response to a screening question is grounds for the denial of your application and for the suspension or revocation of any license issued to you and the imposition of substantial fines. See N.J.S.A. 45:15-17(n). Therefore, it is always better to err on the side of disclosure than to answer a question in a way that may raise concerns about whether your answers were honest and truthful. In all cases where a passing candidate's response to a screening question does raise a concern about his or her qualifications for licensure, the candidate is given the opportunity to submit a full written explanation of the response.
