Quenby Tyler

Born in Florida, raised and educated in England,

Quenby opened her first retail store in Pensacola Florida at the age of 19 and has largely enjoyed entrepreneurial endeavors and self-employment ever since.

In the early 1990s, she served as a freelance costume consultant/ designer for the feature film industry. In subsequent films, she presided over other such creative departments as art director and production designer.

In addition to being a retail business owner in the City of Naples, Quenby Tyler is also an accomplished artist, where she has received much acclaim and commercial success selling her paintings in the Florida panhandle where she lived for some years before relocating to Naples.

Recently her attention has been focused on overseeing her busy apparel business, "Audrey's" located in the CRA Design District.

From Dec 2017 to Jan 2022 she served on the Community Redevelopment Agency Advisory Board

And most recently, served as CRAAB Chair from Jan 2020 until Jan 2022

She also served on the steering committee for the Naples Design District Association and remains committed to the engagement and preservation of small business and independent merchants within Naples.

Over her 8 years of civic involvement along with running her downtown business, she has garnered the support and trust of many merchants and business owners within the downtown district.

Quenby is known for her upbeat, affable communication style and affinity for bringing people together. She is an effective communicator, works well with others and has an ability to see all sides of an issue.
