"New Jersey continues to experience labor shortages in many industries in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic. We are excited to offer this career fair in Jersey City, one of New Jersey's most diverse cities," remarked Harmon. Money Manager John Rogers predicts a good 2023

Despite a rocky stock market, financial uncertainty, and the recent collapse of two major U.S. banks, Chicago-based money manager John Rogers predicts 2023 will still be a strong year for shareholders and investors.

Rogers is the founder, chairman co-CEO and CIO of Ariel Capital Investments in the Windy City. The firm is the country's first African-American-owned mutual fund company and regularly tops the list of Black Enterprise (BE) Magazines' top 100 African-American-owned businesses. As of Dec. 31, Ariel managed about $16.2 billion. The company has offices in New York, San Francisco and Sydney.

During a speech last month, Rogers said he is optimistic about solid market performance in 2023. He said, "I'm not afraid of short-term market actions because Ariel is exposed to "traditional companies as opposed to hot tech stocks."

Additionally, he correctly predicted an increase in inflation last year and that the Bitcoin bubble would burst and implode. Financial experts contend the recent collapse of SVB Bank in California and Signature Bank in New York was, at least in part, linked to growing uncertainty and skepticism about bitcoins and the phenomenon of cryptocurrency.
