

Job Hunting: Step 3 - The Interview

By: Raquel Castaneda

For the past two months, we have been discussing the steps for job hunting through our monthly youth webinars and articles. Step 1 was the resume, Step 2 was how to find a job and now we have reached Step 3, the interview.

Job interviews may be the scariest part of the whole job hunting process, but you can still get through it! An interview is just a meeting where a potential employer asks you about yourself and what type of skills you have for the job. It is similar to the resume only you are speaking directly to a person, answering questions about yourself, and asking questions about the job in person.

You may have to go through multiple job interviews before you get a job. If you do not get the first job you interview for do not get discouraged, do not give up, and keep interviewing for other jobs. Each interview that you have can help you gain experience for future job interviews. So, do not look at an interview that did not result in a job as a failure, but as experience.

We will look more into tips and strategies for successful job interviews in this month's webinar, "Job Hunting: Step 3 - The Interview" on Monday, November 6, 2017, from 6:00 pm - 7:00 pm. To register, please visit <https://attendee.gotowebinar.com/register/1212188861063791874>
