

HELEN SANDERS
PROPHETIC WORD OF ENCOURAGEMENT
10-29-2020

Did you feel it my child? Did you feel it? That gentle breeze that touched your lips was me passing by with comfort and love. Did you see it? Did you see it my child? When that butterfly crossed your path, it was me bringing encouragement. Did you hear it? Did you hear it my child? When the sound of the trumpet shall call, it will be me my child, calling you up to be with me in glory.

I am here, as I always have been. I am guiding you and leading you into paths of refreshment for in this secret place I am bringing restoration to you. Oh yes, my child, it is here. For there are many that are very dry in the spirit and they need refreshing. They long for my touch and I have touched them, but they did not sense it was me. They longed for encouragement and I gave it, but they did not sense it was me. Never forget that I am with you. I am leading and guiding even in the small gifts that I send your way. Do you not know my child? Do you not know that it is I that has penetrated the darkness that longs to overtake you? It is I that sends the wisp of light to overtake the darkness. I am the one that has been there, and I am the one that will continue to be here for you. Just trust me and come to me and lay your head on my shoulder and let your Abba embrace you with the love that only a heavenly Father can give. Come see and hear and come be touched my child for I have much to show you. I long to spend this time with you for you are my beloved, and I am yours saith the Lord.