Grant Writing: Idea to Application

The ability to secure grants and other funding opportunities is critical to the success of organizations across many industries. With the right planning and processes, ideas can grow into successful programs, and projects can turn into organizations, but it all starts with an application or proposal. To many, the process of writing grants or proposals is a mystery or is daunting, and missed opportunities or poorly executed proposals lead to continued frustration or rejection. In other cases, well-crafted proposals end up with the wrong "funder", and go nowhere.
