

Mennonite Action's national training tour will stop here in Asheville on Sat Jan 24th. It will offer people of faith training, tools, and frameworks to help us respond to the current crucial political moment - ICE deportations, ongoing violence in Gaza, and the rise in US Authoritarianism. By the end of that day we'll better:

- Understand the gravity of the moment, and help others understand.
- Prepare our faith communities: to give direct support, mutual aid and bring people into the movement
- Continue mobilizing and practicing for red line moments.
- Make the connection between ICE deportations and Palestine.

- Keep training ourselves with nonviolent action skills.
- Keep organizing. Tabling, talking to neighbors, going door to door and inviting people to participate in our work.
- Build a culture of faith-based courage.

Registration link is: <https://www.mennoniteaction.org/tour>.

Please share this flyer within your faith community's newsletter/bulletin, or social justice leaders, etc. Hot lunch, snacks will be served. Childcare and/or simultaneous interpretation can be arranged if we know about it ahead of time.

Please be thinking about whether you might be able to organize a critical mass of 5-10 folks from your community of faith to attend together - we can make time for your cohort to reflect and brainstorm together.

Let me know if you have questions and/or how we can be helpful to you as you get your community organized and motivated to come.
