JUNE 2021

THANKFUL FOR FATHERS

DR. CODY WARREN

FATHERS, DO NOT PROVOKE YOUR CHILDREN TO ANGER, BUT BRING THEM UP IN THE DISCIPLINE AND INSTRUCTION OF THE LORD.- EPHESIANS 6:4

What do you treasure most in this life? Perhaps time with your family. You might treasure certain hobbies. You may even treasure specific friendships. We should not treasure anything more than our relationship with Christ. I treasure my relationship with my wife next. Then I treasure the set of relationships I have with my children. I love being a dad. I love playing sports with my kids. I love wrestling with them and, yes, even playing with barbie dolls. I love being a dad!

We are so blessed to have fathers who fear God. Paul wrote to the church in Ephesus. In chapter five, he addressed the relationship between husbands and wives. In chapter six, he encouraged the relationship between parents and children. Specifically, in verse four, Paul instructed fathers in two ways:

Do not provoke your children to anger. The word provoke means to “irritate.” Paul instructed fathers not to say or do anything that would cause their children to become angry or bitter. Fathers, we are responsible for the children that God has given us. The things we say to our children will build them up or tear them down. How we treat our children will help them with self-confidence or shatter their self-worth. Fathers, be careful how you treat your children.

Instruct your children in the Lord. Instead of provoking children to anger, fathers are to be instructing their children in the Word of God. How can our children know their self-worth? Teach them that God made them in His image. How can our children know how they should love God and others? Teach them in the Word of God and through your own faithfulness. Fathers, you are the spiritual leaders in the home. Step up to the plate and lead.

I am so thankful for my father. I am thankful that God placed him in my life to lead and guide me. I am thankful for other fathers who have helped me along the way in life. If you have had a godly father in your life, be sure to thank them. If you are a father, pray and ask God to help you lead your family in the discipline of the Lord.

SENIOR ADULT MINISTRY UPDATE

REV. JOEY MILLER,
ASSOCIATE PASTOR OF PASTORAL CARE

Saluting our Faithful Fathers

A son honors his father...– Malachi 1:6

HAPPY FATHERS' DAY – James Hewitt told the story of how when he grew up, they often went on visits through the hills to see his grandmother. One night a thick fog settled over the hilly countryside before they started home. James grew scared of the weather and the danger it posed. He asked if they should drive in such conditions. His mother gently said, "Don't worry. Your father knows the way." His dad had walked that road as a boy, had ridden it many times when dating James' mother, and had made the weekly trip as an adult to visit his parents. We salute our fathers for their faith and courage to lead our families. And we thank God that when we cannot see the road of life plainly and feel like we need direction, we can lean on our fathers and trust our fathers to help us find the way. And don't forget – when we as fathers can't see the road of life and feel that we are losing our sense of direction, we are comforted by the fact that our Heavenly Father knows the way.

SUNDAY SCHOOL – Beginning Sunday, June 6, all our Sunday School classes will return to meeting at 9:30 on Sunday mornings. Thanks to all of you who have sacrificed to help us through the COVID venture. Please reach out and encourage fellow class members to be a part of your 9:30 Sunday School class.

JUNE SAM LUNCHEON – Our June luncheon will be at Middendorf's on June 11. We will leave the church at 10:00 a.m. and travel by bus. Those wishing to go in their cars can caravan with us. Masks are welcomed. Please sign up or call the church office to register. So that we may adequately plan, June 6 is the deadline for registration.

SUMMER OUTINGS – Look for news of more summer outings being planned by our SAM Team.

CELEBRATORS CONFERENCE – The Celebrator's Conference in Pigeon Forge is a fun conference for Senior Adults featuring great music, comedy, and the preaching of Dr. David Jeremiah. The dates are October 11-14. See Bro. Joey for more information or to register.

May the joy of Jesus bless your day,
Bro. Joey

WORSHIP PASTOR MINISTRY UPDATE

CALEB DYKES, WORSHIP PASTOR

Hallelujah! All I have is Christ!

Hallelujah! Jesus is my life!

What an extremely beautiful and powerful assertion for us to make. These words, however, are very challenging for any Christian to sing honestly. For us to truly sing this phrase with all honesty and commitment, we have to assert that Christ is indeed better than all we have ever known and experienced. By saying this, we are saying that no gift, relationship, talent, or experience could ever amount to the joy that we experience in knowing Christ. Philippians 3:7-8 says, "Whatever gain I had, I counted as loss for the sake of Christ. Indeed, I count everything as loss because of the surpassing worth of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord." The apostle Paul understood what it meant to count everything of this world as loss in comparison to knowing Christ. He was wealthy, accomplished, recognized for his accomplishments, of the religious elite, seemingly zealous for God. He recognized that these accolades were mere filthy rags in the light of Christ. The question that we must ask ourselves is: are we willing to count all of our luxuries, gain, success, and accomplishments as worthless compared to the worth of knowing Christ?

I want to highlight three specific ways singing this type of song is helpful to us as a church:

1. It challenges us to love Christ more than anything else. Idolatry is something that all too often rises up in each of us.
2. It reminds us of the commitment that we have to Christ. He loved us enough to go to the cross on our behalf. We, in turn, owe him our entire lives.
3. It serves in helping us to remind one another to love Christ more and more each day. To, just as Christ commanded, deny ourselves and take up our crosses and follow him. (Matt. 16:24-26)

Praise God that our salvation isn't dependent on anything that we've done! Praise God that we, as Christians, are defined by the atoning work of Christ on the cross. What a joy it is to sing, "Hallelujah! All I have is Christ! Hallelujah! Jesus is my life!"

I want to take a moment to inform you of a few exciting things coming up in our Worship Ministry! Senior Singers will resume Monday, June 21st at 9:00 am, and Hand Bells will resume Wednesday, August 18th at 4:00 pm. I am so excited to be able to get these groups back together! (There is something special in the works for both of these kick-off rehearsals, so I hope to see you there!)

Church family, it is my joy to continue to serve you!
Know I am praying for you!

In Christ,
Bro. Caleb Dykes

YOUTH MINISTRY UPDATE

REV. CODY THOMAS,
STUDENT PASTOR

Parent Connection – Intentional Communication

"My dear brothers take note of this: Everyone should be quick to listen, slow to speak, and slow to become angry." – James 1:19

Recently I was talking with a good friend about raising children. He told me of a practice he does every night with his daughter that I have since tried to implement. Every night before the child goes to sleep, sit and talk with the child about anything they want to talk about. If they don't have anything specific to talk about, as the parent, ask a few questions about their day. The goal is to open up the lines of communication because communication within the parent-child relationship is vitally important. Consistently talking with a child will bridge the gap between parent and child.

We as parents have to be intentional and consistent to bridge the communication gap so that our children will trust us and share with us what is on their hearts.

Here are a few suggestions to be more intentional with your communication with your child. Whatever has happened in the past and whatever age your child is, these suggestions will help bridge the communication gap.

1. Good Communication Needs Time

My friend that I mentioned above, his approach is to have consistent, intentional times with his young daughter so that when she becomes a teenager, the bridge of communication is already established. We have to understand that good communication takes time and energy; it doesn't happen overnight. Find a time when cell phones and other distractions can be put away, and you can ask your child questions. Few examples: right before bed, breakfast, on the way to school, at the dinner table, after dinner. Find a time, be consistent, be intentional. A wise parent will make time for intentional individual conversations.

2. Good Communication Requires Listening

Good communication is not learning how to express your thoughts. Good communication is learning how to draw out the thoughts of another person. Your children need to know that you are listening. The more we listen, the more we care. The more our children know we care, the more they are willing to open up to us. Sometimes the best conversations are when our words are very little. "A fool takes no pleasure in understanding, but only in expressing his opinion." Proverbs 18:2. Find a consistent time to be intentional and then listen. A wise parent will learn to listen.

If feelings of inadequacy creep up in your life, then it's a perfect time to better depend on the Lord. Let us be who God has called us to be, all for His glory.

Questions to Ponder:

1. What is a time I can set aside for intentional conversation with my child?
2. What steps do I need to take in order to be a better listener?
