OLLI Fellow Presentations

Each May we have the privilege of discovering the impressive research our OLLI Fellows have accomplished. And this year is a banner year. OLLI supported five Fellows this year, who were showcased for their yearlong work at Thinking Matters, a full-day celebration of research, scholarship, and creative activity.

This year's OLLI Fellows include:

- Bram Stone, "Leading to Transgress: Queering College Student Leadership Identity Development"
- Caleb Randall, "The Use of African American Spirituals as a Way to Combat Isolationism in Aging Rural Communities"
- Heidi Durgin, "Designed for Another Era: Reimagining High School Completion for Today's Working Adults"
- Jocelyn Giammarino, "Skate to Relate: A Qualitative Study of a Therapeutic Skateboarding Program for At-Risk Youth"
- T Love Smith, "Trancestors"

OLLI is proud to support the continued academic research and impactful scholarship by University of Southern Maine graduate students.
