FEATURING PETER VALLIS

Executive Director
San Joaquin Valley Winegrowers Association

A Brief Overview & History of the San Joaquin Valley Wine & Grape Industry

Peter's life with wine and grapes dates back to the day his parents first met; his mother delivered her father's Madera wine to her future mother-in-law's Kingsburg restaurant. From an early age he absorbed from his family what work meant; both learning the practical side of farming and production and the consumer retail side of pairing, pouring, and selling wine at the dining table.

Armed with a singular background in Valley wine and food, Peter has directed his passion for his home through his involvement with the San Joaquin Valley Winegrowers Association to bring global recognition for excellence to grapes and wine from the San Joaquin Valley. Along with speaking and educating about his industry, Peter is involved with community causes, does guest chef and wine education gigs, consults on and manages vineyards and wineries, and yes, since 11 years old, makes wine. Peterangelo, his wife, Demitra, and son, James, live in Fresno.
