

I wanted to be sure to share the exciting news revealed at our Luncheon this week, as well as provide a link to our new website.

Since 1977, Spaulding for Children has been a recognized and respected bridge from foster care to forever homes for special needs children in Houston and South Texas. As our organization celebrates 40 years of connecting and supporting families, we look to the future with a new name—Arms Wide Adoption Services.

Arms Wide Adoption Services provides a warm and accurate description of our organization, helping bring our message and meaning more clearly to the children, families and communities we so loyally serve and support. We will continue the tradition of compassion and credibility long held by Spaulding for Children, building it further as we work to assist even more children and families.

I encourage you to watch this special video to learn more about this exciting change. This is the link to our new website, just scroll down the home page to find the video.
