Meet Damon Runberg:

Damon Runberg is the State Economist at Business Oregon. He supports the statewide economic development goals by tracking and analyzing economic indicators critical to Oregon's workers and businesses. Damon is a prolific writer and speaker with extensive experience giving presentations across the Pacific Northwest and California. He is passionate about presenting economic information in a humorous, entertaining, and digestible fashion. Each presentation is unique to that audience and their community.

Prior to working with Business Oregon Damon was the Regional Economist with the Oregon Employment Department for the East Cascades of Oregon for nearly 12 years. Damon is also the founder and lead economist for East Slope Economics, where he provides research support and market analysis.

Presentation: Recession Fearless

Over the past year there have been increasing conversations about when another recession will hit our economy. In fact, some believe we are already in recession. Inflation is running at a faster pace than any time in the past 30 years, interest rates are soaring, the stock market is down significantly this year, and real economic growth has stalled. Yet, businesses struggle to find workers as unemployment levels remain low and the demand for labor, as measured by job ads, remains high. A confusing story with the economy giving us mixed messages. Damon will review the qualities that define recession, then walk through the most up-to-date economic indicators for the audience to assess whether we are currently in recession or if a recession is looming on the horizon.

GOLDEN TICKET WINNER: RITE WAY ELECTRIC, INC.

Background:

"Since established in 1979, Rite Way Electric, Inc. has been providing superior electrical services throughout the Willamette Valley. From a one-man electrical shop started by Emerson Smoker Sr., to the team of dedicated people we see today, our philosophy of providing a premium customer experience has never wavered.

"We are honored to be featured in the Albany Chamber of Commerce's February newsletter!"

Community Involvement:

"As a small, family-owned business, supporting our local community and its programs is one of our highest priorities. We are fortunate to be able to contribute to important programs ran by the Albany YMCA, Albany Boys and Girls Club, Linn County Fair, 4H programs, Youth Livestock Auction, as well as influential organizations CARDV, Albany Helping Hands, and Veterans Affairs. We know supporting each other builds a strong community allowing us to grow together."

Biggest Issue Facing Albany:

The continual rise of labor and material costs has greatly impacted our businesses and citizens of Albany. It is one of the issues facing Albany today. Obtaining materials has been a challenge that we haven't experienced in past years. Not only have material prices increased, but longer lead times have created difficulty in obtaining those materials. Thankfully, we have been able to source materials with various, local suppliers allowing us to continue serving the needs of our customers. We know Albany businesses and consumers alike are affected by these increases and we are doing our best to mitigate costs to our customers.

Business Marketing Niche:

"Our customers are who keep us in business. Our goal is to provide high quality electrical services for small and large projects. Our team is committed to serving the needs of our customers with the latest education and safety procedures. As the industry grows and changes, our goal is to grow with that industry and provide resources for our team. Our quality and craftsmanship is a testament to this practice and our customers agree by choosing us for their electrical needs."
