PCMH Kids Cohort 2: Requesting practice feedback on coronavirus impact on reporting Q1 2020 CTC-RI Clinical Quality Measures data by April 15th

Reporting your clinical quality information by April 15, 2020 is important because the quality performance results are used to determine practice eligibility for Incentive Payments by the RI Health Plans (contract adjudication).

Historically, CTC has calculated practice eligibility for incentive payment after practices have the opportunity to review their results, submitted to CTC by April 15, at the April Practice Reporting and Transformation Committee meeting (scheduled for 4/22/20);

We are asking for practice feedback on your ability to submit your quarter 1 clinical quality information by April 15th. CTC could request from the health plans an extension for incentive payment determination if practices anticipate a delay in meeting the clinical quality reporting deadline. Our hesitancy in potentially requesting a health plan extension is the financial impact on the practices if there is then a delay in your receiving incentive payments. Please note that health plans have historically required that incentive payments be made at the same time to all practices. Please provide your feedback by completing this quick survey by April 2.
